INTRODUCTION

Of the earliest records of man, genealogical data make so large and important a part that one may say with confidence that genealogical studies have been of interest from the dawn of civilization. In fact, so much attention was being given by the early Christians to these matters that St. Paul found it desirable to caution Timothy against "endless genealogies." I Tim. 1:4. Even though ancestor worship is repugnant to the western mind, some record of the deeds of the fathers seems not only entirely worthy and proper, but it may be urged with reason that failure to keep the records, for which we are responsible to posterity, would demonstrate our lack of reverence for our progenitors who conquered this continent. Certainly we owe something to posterity in keeping the record while it is easy to make, for the families "of ancient lineage" are those alone that preserve their records.

Writers like Amasa Walker in his Making of the Nation have written eloquently of the achievements of the early settlers. He says, "the way in which the pioneer of New England birth or blood, stopping his cattle in the wilderness, and tumbling axe and spade, bundles and barrels upon the unbroken ground, set about the task of providing shelter for his children and his animals, clearing the ground and getting a first crop out of the soil, was not admirable merely as an exhibition of courage, faith and enterprise, but, if we look at the results accomplished for the time and labor expended, it constitutes a triumph of mechanical, we might fairly say of engineering genius." Such romantic statements find ample justification in the actual facts recorded by General Bingham. Each generation seemed eager to push farther out into the wilderness. Incidents relating to the founding of Yale, Middlebury, Dartmouth, and Marietta Colleges show how the pioneer managed to carry his civilization with him into the wilderness. With the school there of course went the church. The respect accorded to the frequent title of Deacon is but one reminder of the importance of religion.

The manuscript of this work was made ready for the printers some years ago, but no arrangements for publication were under way. The Bingham Association was therefore organized at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York on February 12, 1925, with the avowed purpose of making this very valuable work generally available. The officers were as follows: U. S. Senator Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut, President; General Theodore A. Bingham, of New York, Vice-President; Judge Robert W. Bingham, Louisville, Ky., Vice-President; F. F. Bingham, Pensacola, Fla., Vice-President; Walter Bingham, Ogden, Utah, Vice-president; Professor Eugene C. Bingham, Easton, Pa., Secretary; Frederick L. Bingham, New York City, Treasurer; Dr. Anne Bingham, New York City, Recorder.

EUGENE C. BINGHAM, Secretary.

PREFACE

The first edition of this book, published in 1898, while far from complete, at least made permanently available not only my own labors, but those of others who had preceded me.

This publication naturally brought to me a mass of data which should have been in the first book. My own further investigations were richly rewarded, especially in the very early part of the history; and, little by little, as time has passed, missing links, here and there, have been found and inserted.

Mr. Elijah Bingham (4546) must here receive credit for his extensive labors in collecting family data. He worked independently of D. H. Bingham (41860), but they frequently exchanged notes, and the work of the former has been incorporated in these pages through the courtesy of Mr. F. G. Mather, of Albany, N. Y., who had them from Elijah's daughter, Mrs. Roland D. Noble, of Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Mather is, himself, a learned and accomplished genealogist.

A considerable number of valuable data were received from Mr. Eli Bingham (101810), of Wellston, Ohio.

Mr. F. F. Bingham, of Pensacola, Fla., furnished an unusually full and entertaining history of his branch (33 453 481).

But the compiler owes a special mention and acknowledgment of the labors of Mr. William T. Bingham (4992880), as well in searching for and finding a lost and important branch, as in correcting and filling out what had already been compiled—and particularly for his unfailing generosity in communicating information. He was specially industrious and successful in the history of the "early fathers," which is so important to determine before it is too late.

In addition to those mentioned in the preface to the 1898 edition, the compiler returns sincere thanks to the following:

Mr. J. H. Benton, Pension Office, Washington, D. C.

Rev. Hiram Bingham, D.D., Honolulu, Sandwich Islands (12455).

Mrs. John M. Holcombe, 79 Spring St., Hartford, Conn.

Mr. Hales W. Suter, Boston, Mass.

Rev. Charles M. Bingham, Daytona, Fla. (442422).

In spite of its considerable size, the record of the family is still far from complete.

The compiler has been greatly pleased at the success of his system of record. Frequent reference to these records, in order to answer inquiries, has proved the excellence of the system adopted. It is not as compact nor economical to print as other systems are, but it is much superior in simplicity, clearness and ease of reference. It is, in fact, a card-index system.

PREFACE TO EDITION OF 1898

The compiler of this partial genealogy came into possession of a few notes regarding his immediate family before 1879, and endeavored to straighten them out and fill up the gaps. As all genealogists know, such gap-filling brings in other notes containing other gaps, and so ad infinitum. Fifteen years passed, and these notes had grown to considerable dimensions. They were founded on correct family records, corroborated, as regards the writer's own family, by all the necessary tombstones, and based, in collateral branches, on Caulkins, Hinman, Savage, Phillips and similar sources.

It was the compiler's good fortune to be in Sheffield, England, in February, 1894, and to find records which, in his opinion (the argument comes later), establish beyond doubt that

1. It is impossible to connect the Norwich, Conn., Bingham with any noble family or landed gentry subsequent to 1550 A. D., or with Irish families of that date.
2. Thomas Bingham, who was one of the original proprietors of Norwich, came of a father well-to-do in the world and quite able to buy his eighteen-year-old son a share in that colony.

The compiler had concluded to stop his investigations and print his notes when, by a peculiar chain of circumstances, he gained sight of the extensive labors of three others in this field.

1. William L. Weaver's notes on the family genealogy, published in the Willimantic Journal, July, August and September, 1863.
2. D. H. Bingham's papers (41860), never finally arranged nor completed. These had long been known to be voluminous and valuable, but had proved to be an ignis fatuus until, by the help of Mr. Zebina Moses, of Washington, finally discovered to be in the possession of D. H. Bingham's grandson, Capt. W. H. Miller, Quartermasters' Department, U. S. Army (permanent address, care of Q. M. General, U. S. Army, Washington, D. C.).
3. The papers of Walter F. Bingham (442525), now dead, but living in February, 1895, at 1529 Green St., Philadelphia. These were very voluminous and valuable, quite complete and practically ready for publication. These papers were based on D. H. Bingham's work and are also in possession of Capt. Miller.

After looking over these extensive manuscripts, the compiler concluded to complete his work on his own lines, regarding his method of arrangement and numbering the clearest and easiest for reference yet encountered by him, but filling out and completing his own independently discovered and verified data from the three sources mentioned just above. Each of these sources, in the order named, is evidently based on the preceding, and all have been "diligently revised and compared" by the compiler with particular reference to the "early fathers" and somewhat, also, for collateral branches, into which, however, the compiler never intended to go very deeply.

The compiler has intended, when possible, always to quote his source of information. What is given on his own authority, he believes will always prove true; and he has been very careful to separate what he knew from what he thought he knew.

As regards the first Thomas mentioned, as shown by records, as living in Sheffield, England, in 1614, further investigation of records of the Cutlers' Company, of St. Peter's Church, and of Wills (at Wakefield), would undoubtedly open up authentic history for from fifty to one hundred years further back; and the writer hopes some of the family will be enough interested in the matter to do this, now that a firm basis has been established by him for such investigation.

The compiler returns most hearty thanks to all who have assisted him in this compilation, and more particularly to Mrs. H. S. Bingham, Bennington, Vt.

Mrs. Chas. Hill, Morristown, Vt.

THE TRACING OF GENEALOGIES IN GENERAL

Extract from "Handbook of Heraldry," by John E. Cussans, London, Chatto & Windus, 1882.

Page 284. The records in the family Bible or other documents of a similar nature will usually give two or three generations; beyond these, reference must be made to parochial and other local registers and wills. The latter frequently supply a valuable clue to collateral branches of the family.

Note by T. A. B.—Wills in England are to be found at Somerset House, London; at Peterborough, York, Durham; and for Sheffield, Yorkshire, at the Deanery of Doncaster.

Old numbers of "The Annual Register" and "Gentleman's Magazine" (England), army lists, college registers (England and America) will also, in many instances, be found of great service.

It would also be advisable to ascertain at the College of Heralds what records, if any, are there to be found.

If the pedigree can be traced up to the middle of the seventeenth century and the family were, at that time, entitled to armorial bearings, the Visitations of the Heralds may carry it three generations higher or more.

In England, county histories, documents in the Public Record Office, particularly Subsidy Rolls (for in them will be found the name of every householder assessed), and, in some cases, Municipal Archives and Monastic Chartularies, must now be carefully and patiently examined, the genealogist bearing in mind that no reliance can be placed on the orthography of proper names, either of persons or places.

The real labor now commences, and unless the family were during the sixteenth century either noble or landed proprietors, further research is almost useless.

Except in a few rare instances, it is utterly impossible to trace a pedigree beyond the time of Richard the Second, 1381-1399, and those persons who assert that their ancestors "came over with the Conqueror" derive their authority chiefly, if not wholly, from tradition or their own imagination.

For the same reason that it is difficult for such persons to prove their assertion, it is equally difficult to refute it.

Nothing is more common than for a person bearing a certain name to imagine that he is necessarily connected with another family of the same name.

LIST OF AUTHORITIES ON WHICH THIS GENEALOGY IS BASED

1. Personal examination of records in Sheffield, England, February 20, 1894.
2. "Notes on Windham," by William L. Weaver. The manuscript is in the Conn. Histor. Soc. at Hartford. They were printed in the Willimantic Journal, July-September, 1863; copy in D. H. Bingham's papers. They were intended as part of a History of Windham, never completed, of which town Weaver was a resident. A son, Thomas S. Weaver, is an editor of the Hartford Courant (May, 1896). This is without doubt the best foundation for the family genealogy in existence, as it is fully based on deeds, wills, etc.
3. Genealogical papers of D. H. Bingham in possession of his grandson, Capt. W. H. Miller, Q. M. Dept., U. S. Army.
4. Genealogical papers of Walter F. Bingham, very complete, based on the above two sources and in possession of the same Capt. Miller.
5. "Old Houses of the Ancient Town of Norwich," 1660-1800, by Mary E. Perkins, Norwich, Conn., 1895. This book states that the original American Thomas came with his mother to Saybrook first—a tradition mentioned by Weaver.
6. Tombstone inscriptions.
7. History of Norwich, Conn., U. S., from its possession by the Indians to 1866, by Miss F. M. Caulkins.
8. "Puritan Settlers of Connecticut," by Hinman; published by Tiffany & Co., Hartford, 1825. The facts and dates down to and including the children of Stephen Bingham (12) are given by Hinman as from Windham records.

ORIGIN OF THE NAME BINGHAM

Extracts from "Words and Places," by Isaac Taylor, M. A., Vicar of Holy Trinity, Twickenham, 3d edit., Macmillan & Co., London, 1873.

- p. 81. The suffix "ham," which is very frequent in English
p. 82. names, appears in two forms in Anglo-Saxon documents.

One of these, "hǣm," signifies an enclosure, that which hems in—a meaning not very different from that of ton or worth. These words express the feeling of reverence for private right, but hǣm involves a notion more mystical, more holy. It expresses the sanctity of the family bond; it is the Home, the one secret (geheim) and sacred place. In the Anglo-Saxon charters we frequently find this suffix united with the names of families—never with those of individuals. This word, as well as the feeling of which it is the symbol, was brought across the ocean by the Teutonic colonists and it is the sign of the most precious of all the gifts for which we thank them. It may indeed be said, without exaggeration, that the universal prevalence, throughout England, of names containing this word Home, gives us the clue to the real strength of the national character of the Anglo-Saxon race. What a world of inner difference there is between the English word home and the French phrase chez nous! It was this supreme reverence for the sanctities of domestic life which gave to the Teutonic nations the power of breathing a new life into the dead bones of Roman civilization.

Cognate with ham (not hǣm), is the German heim, home, which enters so largely into the names of Southern Germany.

Hǣm, for the most part, is the source of the Frisian suffix um, which fringes the coast line of Hannover and Oldenburg. It should be noted, however, that the suffix um is sometimes only the sign of the dative plural.

The most important element which enters into Anglo-Saxon names yet remains to be considered. This is the syllable ing. It occurs in the names of more than one-tenth of the whole number of English villages and ham-

p. 83. lets often as a simple suffix, as in the case of Dorking, Hastings, etc.; but, more frequently, we find that it forms the medial syllable of the name, as in the case of Buckingham.

The syllable ing was the usual Anglo-Saxon patronymic. Thus we read in the Saxon Chronicle (A. D. 547).

Ida waes Eopping, or Ida was Eoppa's son.

Eppa waes Esing, or Eoppa was Esa's son.

In fact the suffix ing, in the names of persons, had very much the same significance as the prefix Mac in Scotland, O' in Ireland, etc.

p. 85. Speaking of the numbers of places where various family names of ancient origin are to be found, this book further says:

"The Aescings, the royal race of Kent, are likewise found in thirteen places. The Cyllings and the Wealings are found in twelve places;—the Bennings, the Bings, the Bobbings—in five."

p. 90. We find that ing is never a mere suffix; in every case it forms the medial syllable of the name.

p. 100. The evidence is overwhelming. It proves that the villages of Würtemberg and the villages of England were originally settled by men bearing the same family names.

p. 101. These Swabian names terminate almost universally in ing-en. The suffix en is usually the sign of the dative plural. Thus Burlingen would mean "at the Birlings," that is, at the place where the family of "Birl" (or Birling?) lives.

(Note—?—Thus Bingen (on the Rhine) would mean "at the Bings; that is, at the place where the family of "Bing" lives. T. A. B.)

p. 101 ————— and it is therefore a question whether the ingen of Würtemberg is not the same as the ingham of England, since we can trace it through the intermediate stages of ingham and inghem.

p. 102. The Swabians and Angles of Würtemberg may possibly have formed one of the transported colonies of Charlemagne; if, indeed, the Swabian colony was not a settlement brought about at the same time and by the same causes that produced the descents upon the English coast.

p. 328. Ing; Anglo-Saxon; a meadow—e. g., Ingham.

p. 332. Heim; Germany. }
Ham; England. } a home, e. g. Buckingham.
Hen; Picardy. }
Um; Friesland. }

p. 334. Ing; England. }
Ingen; Germany. } sons of, e. g. Reading, Tübingen.

In the opening of Sir Walter Scott's "Castle Dangerous" it says: "Ings or flat plains by the sides of the brooks and rivers," termed, farther north, "holms." *

It appears also that "Bing" is still a Danish family name.

THE CHURCH AT BINGHAM, ENGLAND

ORIGIN OF THE BINGHAMS IN ENGLAND AND MEDIÆVAL BINGHAMS

From the foregoing it seems reasonable to believe that there were no "Binghams" in England before the Norman Conquest in 1066.

There was a well-known place called "Bing-ham," which was the home of the Bings or Byngs, which name of a family still exists in England and Denmark.

After the Conquest, Normans held Bingham Lordship; and those of them who held Bingham Manor and its estates took the name "De Bingham" from the place. This would account for the persistent tradition that the family was of French origin.

The "origin" of the Binghams in England can be summarized as follows:

There are two distinct "tribes" of them, both Norman.

The first "tribe" was founded by a feudal subordinate of De Buisli, a great Norman lord, who in 1066 obtained the Lordship of Bingham, as well as estates all over England, including lands at Sutton, in Somerset.

This man took the name, and he, or some one of his family, is of record as John de Bingham, holding Sutton.

This first "tribe" held Bingham until some years after 1200, when the manor and estates were again "in the hands of the king."

From this first "tribe," records show the development of the Binghams of Sutton, Somerset; of Bingham-Melcombe, Dorset; of the Irish noblemen, Earls of Lucan, Barons Clanmorris, etc., of County Mayo, Ireland; all of the present day. This is almost sufficiently proved by armorial bearings alone.

Note that the above first "tribe" of Binghams lost all connection with Bingham Manor, as above related.

Next, it is of record that, in 1266, Bingham Manor and its estates again left "the hands of the king" and came into possession of another Norman, from Nottingham town, named Boug or Bugge, who promptly took the name Bingham, as did his sons, who soon appear in the records as Bingham of Carcolston, Bingham of Kinalton, Bingham of Leke, etc., all estates belonging to the property.

This second "tribe" of Binghams, as will be seen in this book later, are easily followed by records and by armorial bearings, quite different from those of the first "tribe," and they held possession of the various estates until they lost them about 1400 owing to lack of issue or submergence by marriage of daughters.

So there were these two distinct "tribes" of the family, in no wise related—the name being taken in both cases from possession of the same Manor of Bingham, in Notts, twelve miles from Nottingham, at distinctly different periods of time.

Of course, while in possession of either "tribe," the estates were held by the eldest sons, and the younger sons, as they increased in number, gradually ceased to be "landed gentry" and drifted into professions or other means of livelihood, such as manufacture or trade.

The published "Visitations of Herald's" show a number of the latter as still entitled to armorial bearings as late as 1635.

Naturally, too, these younger children drifted away from the center at the "Manor" in all directions—and this was true of both "tribes." Hence records show the name in surrounding towns, at first not far from Bingham Manor, such as Wakefield, Sheffield, etc.; then in and around London; also in and around Belfast, Ireland, where a large colony developed.

So that, in tracing any Binghams of the present day, care must be taken to prove which of the two "tribes" they belong to; and this involves the further difficulty and necessity of knowing something of "Heraldry."

After the publication of the book, "Bingham and Other Genealogies," in October, 1898, the compiler had access to the Library of Congress, in Washington, and endeavored to examine every authority there to be found on the subject now under discussion. The following list was carefully examined:

Bingham.

Marshall's "Genealogists' Guide."

Burke's "Commoners," ii, 350.

Burke's "Landed Gentry," 2, 3, 4, 5.

 "The Genealogist," i, 165—iii, 239.
 Harleian Society, xiii, 167, 363.
 It was thus discovered that the anonymous book, "The Norman People," referred to on page xxvii of the Bingham book above mentioned, was not altogether reliable. Correspondence with the publishers brought answer that the author was unknown to them.

It was learned that the history of De Buisli is veiled in obscurity, and that the England antiquarians have, so far, failed to clear it up.

Multiply by 12 for approximate value in twentieth century.

In following pages will be found all such facts as it is possible, apparently, to glean from extant records regarding De Buisli and the Binghamms of mediæval times.

It is thought unnecessary, as well as uninteresting, to give the arguments and the facts on which these are based, by which the theory presented below has been arrived at. There is, however, justification for saying that, as far as evidence at present available goes, the English Binghamms since the Conquest (1066 A. D.) do not descend from De Buisli, but probably from feudal subordinates of his. Simple inspection of the respective coats-of-arms would seem sufficient proof of this.

As a result of much study and cogitation and faithful endeavor to piece together such extant records as seem reliable, being careful to supply nothing as evidence which is only imagined or wished for, the compiler presents the following

THEORY OF THE ORIGIN OF THE BINGHAMS IN ENGLAND

Starting with the information given in the chapter, "Origin of the Name Bingham":

1. It is assumed that a family or clan named Bing or Byng came from central Europe to Britain, perhaps, or even probably, from Bingen-on-the-Rhine, in Suabia. Whether they came over for other reasons or were forced to migrate by Charlemagne is immaterial.
2. It is assumed that "Bingen" of central Europe became "Bingham" in Anglo-Saxon Britain, as both mean the same, viz.: "At the home of the Bings" or "Where the Bings live."
3. It is certain that there was a family or clan of Bings in England long before the conquest of 1066 A. D., and this is still a well-known English family name.
4. It is certain that this clan was of considerable importance, because when Britain was divided into "hundreds" for purposes of government, before and during King Alfred's time, one of these was called Bingham Hundred, named after this clan; and there was a particular settlement called Bingham, still existing, eleven miles east of Nottingham, where, no doubt, the old chieftains lived or, at least, had their headquarters. Near Bingham is still a place called Saxondale.* While the name Bingham over-lived the Norman conquest and down to this day, as also the family name Bing, it is not only probable but reasonably certain that none of the Binghams of today have any blood relation to the old Saxons who lived and lorded at Bingham Manor and throughout the Bingham Hundred.
5. In the division of England among the Normans after the Conquest, Bingham Lordship and Bingham Manor figure extensively in the records and can be easily traced to this day. Plenty of evidence can be adduced to prove that many of the Normans took names from the estates they acquired.

[Note—The probabilities are that the family or clan name was Bing, not Bingham, which last was the name of a place.]

6. In the old records one finds, shortly after the Conquest, a considerable family of De Bingham, and as the family grew from that center, we find Bingham of Bingham, of Clipston, of Kinalton, of Carcolston, and so on; all of which estates were in the Bingham Lordship.

Now it must be remembered that a man might be a De Bingham and yet not be a knight, unless he received that honor later, which all did not. He and his sons might have no property connection with the old Bingham Manor and yet have other estates. Thus, De Bingham of Carcolston was very soon Bingham of Carcolston simply, and it would not be many years before there would be Bingham, younger sons, not only without the "de," but also without any estates at all from which to take a name.

7. It is certain that De Buisli, a great Norman lord, ranking eighth after King William the Conqueror, in Nottinghamshire, obtained possession of all or of a large part (in addition to other lands) of Bingham Lordship, and, in particular, of Bingham Manor, in Nottinghamshire.
8. It is certain that De Buisli built and lived at Tickhill Castle, in South Yorkshire, and founded a priory at Blythe.
9. It is more than probable that De Buisli gave Bingham Manor to one of his feudal subordinates who lived there and took, or his sons took, the name of De Bingham.
10. It is certain that De Buisli also held the estate of Sutton, in Somerset.
11. It is almost certain that there was a Sir John de Bingham, knight, in the time of King Henry I (1100-1135), who lived at Sutton, Somerset (see Collinson).

It is assumed that he also was a feudal retainer of De Buisli and belonged to the very family to which De Buisli had given Bingham Manor, in Nottinghamshire. He might, for instance, have been the second son. For he seems to have been a youngish man, as there is record that he was knighted by King Henry I, who was the second king after William the Conqueror.

THE MARKET PLACE, BINGHAM, ENGLAND

This Sutton Bingham was almost certainly the ancestor of the present Melcombe-Binghams and of the noble Irish Bingham families.

12. It is certain that when De Buisli was dead (by 1098 A. D.), the overlordship of Bingham passed to other families, and it would appear that the feudal retainer placed there by De Buisli died or was dispossessed, leaving children, who were not able, however, to hold on to Bingham Manor.

It is certain, however, that some of these children, De Binghams, under the feudal law, still owed feudal service which was, in some way, to a certain extent, connected with Bingham Manor and its dependencies. While they had failed to hold the Manor, they may have had farms and places which belonged to the Manor estates.

13. It is certain that shortly after 1200 A. D. Bingham Manor and its lands were again in the hands of the king; which means that the original De Binghams, who had first lived there after the Conquest, were dispossessed altogether, and I find no record of what became of such De Binghams as then appear, from scattered records, to have been living.

FIRST PART OF THE THEORY

The traditions of several branches of the present Bingham family claim ancestors at one time living in Scotland. Sheffield is north of Bingham Manor, on the road to Scotland. The Binghams who were dispossessed of the Manor may, some of them, have wandered northward, and our Sheffield ancestor may most reasonably be descended from one of them. If this be true, we may have a common ancestor with the Melcombe-Bingham family of Dorset and with the noble Irish family; but see later.

However, if this be the true theory, it can never be proved, for sufficient records do not exist.

14. The John de Bingham, knight, who was living at Sutton, Somerset, in the time of King Henry I (1100-1135), seems certainly to have been left undisturbed.

Hutchin's "History of Dorset," Vol. iv, beginning with this man, gives the line in unbroken succession to the present day of the Melcombe-Binghams of Dorset. One of this line married the Turberville heiress and succeeded to property in Dorset, while the Sutton property in Somerset eventually passed into other hands.

All the prominent Irish Binghams spring from the Melcombe, Dorset, family, as proved by their armorial bearings.

15. It is certain that in 1266 A. D. King Henry III granted Bingham Manor in fee to Ralph Bugge, of Nottingham, one of whose children assumed the name De Bingham, which descended. Others of Ralph Bugge's descendants took the names of other estates which they possessed, some of these estates being former dependencies of Bingham Manor.

Thoroton's "Nottinghamshire," edited by Throsby, Vol. i, now becomes most interesting reading, giving, as it does, quite a complete history of Bingham Lordship and Manor and their dependencies and of the various vicissitudes of the Bugge-Bingham family. The original edition was printed about 1677, only about seventeen years after our first Connecticut ancestor, Thomas, came from Sheffield to Norwich, Conn., U. S. A.

16. It is certain that in 1400 A. D. these Bingham estates were again in the hands of the king and by law settled on Sir Thomas de Rempston, with certain life rents still due to certain De Bingham widows.

De Rempston had a daughter, Margaret, who married a Bingham, but they appear to have had no children.

17. It is certain that by 1460 A. D. these Bingham estates had again passed entirely out of the hands of a family of that name.

18. But it is also certain that in 1460 A. D. there were a good many De Bingham scattered about in the neighborhood of Bingham Manor. Why none of them got the lands, I do not know. After the elder lines died out, the lands do not seem to have gone to the younger branches, but back to the king. Most of these Bingham were direct descendants of the Ralph Bugge of Nottingham who got Bingham and its dependencies in 1266 A. D. from the king.
19. There are scattered but apparently reliable records of Bingham of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, living in London, Surrey, Rutland, Essex and other counties. These all, both by armorial bearings and pedigrees of record, came from the Bugge-Bingham family of Nottingham of 1266 A. D. These Bingham had all moved south from Nottingham, and were engaged in some kind of income-producing business. One is described as a "citizen and haberdasher," another as a "gentleman and merchant." One can be traced down to 1560 A. D., another to 1623 A. D.

SECOND PART OF THE THEORY

Why may not others of this family have moved north instead of south—as, for instance, to Sheffield, Wakefield, etc., which are not far?

20. The Bingham who was "The Master Cutler of Sheffield" in 1624 A. D. may well be compared in social station with the Bingham of London, "gentleman and merchant," in or before King Henry VIII's time (1509-1547); or with the Bingham of London, "citizen and haberdasher," who married the daughter of King Henry VIII's goldsmith. Yet these last two have their pedigrees in the Visitations of Heralds and their armorial bearings are the same as those of the Bugge-Bingham of Nottingham and Bingham Manor in 1266 A. D., viz.:

Or, on a fesse gules, three water bougets argent.

21. It is believed that it would not prove difficult to trace back from the Thomas Bingham, our first Connecticut ancestor, through his father, who was married in Sheffield in 1631, and then through Thomas, "The Master Cutler of Sheffield," in 1624, and who became a member of the Cutlers' Company in 1614, for say a hundred years, by study of

- (a) Registers of St. Peter's and Holy Trinity Church, Sheffield.
- (b) Records of the Cutlers' Company, Sheffield.
- (c) Registers of wills, etc., at Doncaster, Wakefield and Nottingham.
- (d) Subsidy rolls (very important).
- (e) Records of Sheffield, Wakefield, Mansfield, Nottingham and Bingham itself.

It is hoped some member of the family will have enough family pride yet to do this.

Extracts from Mediaeval Records

THE ANCIENT SAXON "BINGHAM HUNDRED"

Before the Conquest (A. D. 1066)

Thoroton was a Nottinghamshire gentleman who, in 1677, published a book called "Thoroton's Nottinghamshire," in three volumes, which was edited, a century later, by Throsby. The edition of 1797, Vol. i, is full of Bingham history from the earliest recorded times, and contains information of later times as to Bingham Lordship and Manor, including a picture of the Church at Bingham. It is from this book that most of the following information is extracted.

- p. 1. The County of Nottingham * * * with Yorkshire on the north, Leicestershire on the south and east, Derbyshire on the west, contained three "Hundreds" or Wapentakes, viz., Rushcliff, Bingham and Newark, constituting a third or fourth part of this county.
- p. 138. Binghamschou-Wapentac * * * so called from the usual place of meeting, viz., a certain Pit on the Top of the Hill, on the contrary side of the Fosse Way, near the most westerly corner of Bingham Lordship, called Moot House Pit. * * *
- p. 271. Bingham Lordship * * * Before the Conquest, Tosti, Hoge and Helga each had a manor here.

Note by T. A. B. That word "Wapentac" has a deal of history in itself. It is, in German, "Waffentag." "Waffen" means weapons; "Tag," as thus used, means a convention or parliament. Hence, Wapentag means "Parliament of Warriors," and considering the description of the place above given, a picture rises before the mind of a natural amphitheater, on the top of a hill, where the old Saxon warriors assembled from time to time, on the side slopes of the conical pit, from which all were visible to the rest, and from the center and bottom of which the voices of the leaders or speakers would rise in circling waves of sound, perfectly audible to the entire assemblage.

The following estates are given by Thoroton as in Bingham Hundred, all in Nottinghamshire and divided among the Normans after the Conquest. The names in italics are those of manors at one time or another occupied by Bingham.

ROGER DE BUISLI (1066-1098)

Arms: S, an escutcheon within an orlé of cinquefoil azure.

There is no doubt that he came over "with the Conqueror." His name is on Battle Abbey Roll, which is, however, doubtful authority. But Thoroton and Hutchin's "History of Dorset," as well as other authorities, confirm the fact.

He was a great Norman lord, who received upward of two hundred lordships and baronies in various parts of England, and his wife, Muriel, was an intimate of Matilda, wife of the Conqueror. He ranked ninth in order of precedence in Nottinghamshire. Thoroton, p. 2, quotes from the "Doomsday Book," as follows:

Tenants of Land in Snotinghamscyre

1. King William.
2. Earl Alan (of Richmond).
3. Earl Hugh (of Chester).
4. Robert (Earl Meriton).
5. The Archbishop of York.
6. The Bishop of Lincoln.
7. The Bishop of Bayon.
8. The Abbot of (Peter) Burgh.
9. Roger de Buisli.

* * *

24. Henry de Ferrariis.
25. Robert Malet.

* * *

28. Robert Fitzwilliam.

30. The King's Thanes.

There were two Buislis in Normandy, one near Neuchâtel and one near Eu. Hunter, who investigated this subject, in his "History of South Yorkshire" (I, 220—II, 184), says he could not determine from which one this Roger came, and gives an interesting account of his researches. As said above, Muriel, the wife of this Roger, was a great friend of Matilda, the wife of the Conqueror, and estates were given to her (and her husband) by this king.

Thoroton, p. 13, says: * * * Roger de Buisli, whom King William the Conqueror made the greatest man of lands in this county (Notts), by many degrees; for the great survey taken in that king's reign shows that in this small shire he had 174 manors, being the best part of 90 townships, besides very many other towns. * * * His seat in this county was at Blyth (where he founded a priory in 1088) and in Yorkshire, at Tickhill. Hutchin's "History of Dorset" says he did not have a seat at Blyth, but had only the one at Tickhill, which he greatly enlarged or entirely built.

LANDS OF ROGER DE BUISLI

Notts

Thoroton, p. 3. 174 manors, among them: Bingham, Carcolston, Clipston, Kinalton, Leke, in Bingham Hundred; Stanford (Stoneford), in Rushcliff Hundred.

Thoroton adds: Before the invasion of the Normans, Elsi had a manor here, * * * but afterwards it became the fee of Roger de Buisli.

Somerset

Sutone (Sutton)—Collinson, in his "History of Somerset," says, p. 349: "The manor of Sutton was given by the Conqueror to Roger Arundel," and then quotes from Domesday Book: "Roger (Buissel) holds of Roger (Arundel) Sutone. Ulward held it in the time of King Edward" (Confessor, 1042-1066). He adds: "Sir John de Bingham, knt., was living here in the time of Henry I (1100-1135)."

Hutchin's "History of Dorset," p. 369, says: "In the record of Sutone in Domesday Book the surname Buissel is interlineated and might possibly have been a mistake for or different form of Busli."

Yorkshire

The Honour of Tickhill—This was evidently a very choice property, about which there has been much investigation and much has been written. Its ruins still exist. It kept falling continually into the hands of the king, and was one of his choice gifts.

Grainge's "Castles and Abbeys of Yorkshire," p. 2, says: Nothing is known of Tickhill until the period of the Conquest, when we find the principal property in this neighborhood in the possession of Roger de Buisli, who either enlarged or built a castle here. The time of this warrior's decease is not exactly known, but he was certainly dead in 1098.

Soon after this death, Robert de Belesme obtained from King William Rufus (1087-1100) the possessions of Roger de Buisli, who was his kinsman, for a great sum of money, and it appears that he stepped in between the property and some persons who had a nearer claim. In the succeeding reign, all the possessions of Robert de Belesme were resumed by King Henry I (1100-1135), who kept possession of Tickhill.

From Domesday Book: In Hallum—one manor—Roger (de Busli) has this land of Judith, the Countess (widow of Earl Waltheof).

In Ateclive and Escafeld (Sheffield)—two manors:

Maltby & Helgebi	Stanton	Nortgrave
Dadesby	Brinesford	and many others
Stainton	Timslaw

Devonshire

From Domesday Book: Roger de Busli held of the King Sanforde. The Queen gave it to Roger and his wife.

The introduction to Domesday Book, by a modern author, says, apparently quoting from Dugdale's "Barony," I, p. 455: "The barony terminated in John, his grandson, who left one daughter."

DESCRIPTION OF BINGHAM LORDSHIP

Thoroton, Vol. I, p. 271 (1677-1797):

Before the Conquest, Tosti, Hoge and Helga each had a manor here. After the Conquest, this (Bingham) became wholly the fee of Roger de Busli. The Lordship contains about 3000 acres, inclosed about 1580 A. D.

DESCRIPTION AND HISTORICAL NOTES ON BINGHAM MANOR

Thoroton :

- p. 73. It is on an old Roman road running from London to Lincoln.
- p. 277. Bingham stands at the distance of near a mile from the turnpike road running from Nottingham to Newark, ten miles from the former and eleven miles from the latter.
- p. 273. The Book of the Forest of Sherwood shows that Haywood (a piece of forest between Oretton and Blidworth) * * * belonged to the town of Bingham in 1250 A. D.
- p. 277. Bingham is a market town but not of considerable magnitude. We may suppose that it was once of more consequence by its giving its name to a "Hundred" or "Wapentake," and by the foundations of very ancient buildings being frequently discovered. Two chapels once stood in this place.
- p. 278. The church is dedicated to All Saints (picture of it faces Thoroton, Vol. i, p. 13).
- p. 281. Bingham is a rectory, now in the gift of the Earl of Chesterfield. The oldest register begins 1598 A. D. At Bingham there was a college dedicated to the Virgin Mary, broken up at the dissolution (Henry VIII, 1509-1547).
- p. 274. Several of the rectors of Bingham were removed to bishoprics—Abbat, Harmer, Uren, successively.
- In the guildhall of St. Mary, in Bingham and the lands belonging to it there, grants were allowed in 1553 and 1575 of the Close in Bingham wherein stood the chapel of St. James, and also of St. Helen's Close. In the middle of the chancel was Sir Thomas de Rempston's tomb, bearing his arms, viz., Argent, a chevron with a mullet or cinque-foil in the dexter point sable—Impaling, cheq. argent and gules, a bend sable—Beker-ing, which was also in the windows but in some made lozengy.

- p. 274. In the church, a stone tomb and one of alabaster (now under a seat), whereon used to lie the statues, cross-legged, of some of the Binghams with their shields, whereon is embossed three water bougets on a fesse.

HISTORICAL NOTES

Thoroton:

- p. 271. 1088 A. D. Roger de Busli, at his foundation of Blyth Priory in 1088, gave to it two parts of the tithes of the Hall of Bingham, which, in the copy of the foundation charter, printed in the Monast. Angl. Vol. I, p. 553, is omitted by the fault of some scribe.

William Paganell, husband of Avaricia de Romeilla and father of Adeliza, wife of Robert de Gaunt, was the next owner of this place.

1186 A. D. In 1186 William le Vavassur had allowance and gave account for 40 shillings laid out in the repair of the houses of Cortorp and Bingham, by the King's Writ, Rot. Pip. 32 H. 2.

Avaricia de Romeilla gave in alms to a church the multure of Bingham.

Hugh, the son of Clement de Bingham, gave certain money out of property he had from Roys, daughter of Cecily, his sister, held of him in Bingham.

1205 A. D. Richard, son of Robert, in 1205, gave a sum of money for "having seizin of some land with the appurtenances in Bingham * * * which were in the King's hand, whereof Robert de Bingham, father of said Richard, died seized," etc.

Fouke Painell (Paganell) held the Barony of Bingham. He enfeoffed Hugh de Bingham.

Afterwards Fouke was disseized of that barony by occasion of the King's precept "de Terris Normanorum" and that town was given to Henry de Balliol * * * and the service of Hugh still kept in the King's possession.

Between 1199 and 1272 the Town of Bingham was found (in law) to be an escheat of the "Terra Normannorum," and that Colvinus de Lettris and his brother had it of the gift of King John (1199-1216) and of his son, King Henry III (1216-1272).

1226 A. D. William de London had the King's presentation to the church of Bingham.

1230 A. D. Nicholas de Lettris had a patent for this manor in 1230.

1235 A. D. The Manor of Bingham was granted to William de Ferrariis (Earl of Nottingham) in 1235.

1266 A. D. But in 1266 the King granted it in fee to Ralph Bugge, whose son, Richard de Bingham, was a knight.

1280 A. D. Adam Bugge, in 1280, acknowledged certain land in Bingham to be the right of Hugh, son of Silvester de Bingham.

(Note by T. A. B.—I take these last two, Silvester and Hugh, mentioned here and above, to be descendants of the first family of Normans who first held Bingham, and to be still living on land belonging to the estates of the Manor and still owing feudal service in connection therewith and yet having no longer claim on the Manor. If this supposition be correct, they should be found to bear the same arms as the Melcombe-Binghams.)

1284 A. D. There was a suit in the Spiritual Court between the Monastery of Blyth and Robert, the Parson of Bingham, for that he had carried away in the year 1280 the tithes of the sheaves growing on the antient demesne of Sir Ralph de Bingham and his ancestors, in the fields of Bingham, whereof the said Monastery was antiently possessed, etc.; which controversy was agreed that the said Rector and his successors should pay four marks yearly, in the name of a farm, to the said monastery, by the consent of Sir Richard de Bingham, the patron, in 1284.

p. 139. 1294 A. D. Richard de Bingham, in 1294, had a charter of free Warren in Bingham.

p. 274. 1298 A. D. There was a portion allotted in 1298 for a vicarage at Bingham, which, within two or three years after, was consolidated with the rectory with which it still (1677) continues.

p. 272. 1301 A. D. In 1301 the jury found it not to the King's nor any other's loss if Sir Richard de Bingham gave five marks yearly rent out of Nottingham.

1308 A. D. Nor, in 1308, if he gave certain land here to a chaplain celebrating Divine Service in the chapel of St. Elen, at Bingham.

p. 139. In 1308 certain revenues of the Manor of Bingham were settled on Richard de Bingham and Alice, his wife, and the heirs males which the said Richard should beget on the body of the said Alice; remainder to William, son of Alice Bertram of Bingham, and the heirs males of his body; remainder to Richard, younger brother of William, and his; remainder to Thomas, brother of the said Richard the younger and the heirs males of his; remainder to the right heirs of the said Richard de Bingham.

This Sir Richard was resident at Bingham all or most of his time and had, by one Alice Bertram, three sons, William, Richard and Thomas. On William he settled Bingham Manor and Clipston and lands in Outhorpe, Kinalton, Cotgrave, Nottingham and Rotinton; and the advowson of the church of Bingham; and in the latter end of his time married her, as may be gathered from deeds of 1306, 1308 and 1309. The facts about Alice appear from a settlement deed of 1309 in which William is said to be the son of said Alice.

p. 273. 1318 A. D. In 1318, William, son of Eustachius de Bingham, settled a certain amount of land on himself and Agnes, his wife, and the heirs of their bodies; for want of which, one half to his son Robert and the other to his son William and the respective heirs of their bodies; remainder to the said William, son of Eustachius.

1330 A. D. In 1330, Alice, who had been the wife, and William, the son of Sir Richard de Bingham, claimed a market every Thursday and a fair at Bingham for six days every year, viz., the Eve and Feast of Saints Simon and Jude and four days following; which was granted them and the heirs of the body of William.

1348 A. D. In 1348 certain land with the appurtenances in Bingham * * * and the advowson of the Church of All Saints and the Chapel of St. Elen, of Bingham, were settled on William de Bingham, knight, and the heirs males of his body; remainder to Richard, brother of said William and his, etc.; and for want of such to Matilda, daughter of Richard, son of Ralph Bugge, and her heirs.

pp. 139, 272. 1388 A. D. Before 1388, Sir Richard de Bingham, knight, succeeded as son and heir of this William and died about 1388, the Thursday before St. Matthew's Day, at West Chester. He had a son, William, whom he overlived. On this son and his wife, Margaret, he settled Clipston, Kinalton and some other lands. This son, William, married first Margaret, living in 1367; second, Isabella (Fitzwilliam?), living in ———; and, dying before his father, left a son, Robert, about three or four years old, who became the heir to Sir Richard de Bingham, knight, his grandfather, and to the estates above mentioned; as well as to Bingham, where his grandfather had lived and died. But this child, Robert, did not live long.

1400 A. D. For these estates were again, in 1400, in the hands of the King and by law settled on Sir Thomas de Rempston and his heirs, to come to them eventually. For Isabel, the second wife, above mentioned, of William de Bingham, still had a life interest in the Manor of Clipston; and Joane, widow of Sir John Pavely and daughter of ———(?), held Bingham for her life, and after her death it was to go to William Arundel and Agnes, his wife, if living. After the death of all these, the properties mentioned fell again into the hands of the King, and thence to Sir Thomas de Rempston, as above said.

p. 273. 1459 A. D. This Sir Thomas, by Margaret, his wife, had a son, another Sir Thomas Rempston, who married Alice, daughter and heiress of Sir Thomas and Isabel Bekering, and died about 1459 and lies buried in the middle of the chancel at Bingham, under a fair alabaster tomb, whereon lie the effigies of himself and his wife. He left three daughters and heiresses to Bingham and his other lands, viz., Elizabeth, wife of John Cheney, Esq.; Isabel, wife of Sir Brian Stapleton, knight, or vice versa; Margaret, wife of Richard Bingham, Esq., the younger; which last pair, Thoroton thinks, left no issue.

1461-83 A. D. Between 1461-83, there were many recoveries and executions of the old legal decisions of 1308 A. D. concerning the Manor and the rest of the Bingham lands. But by 1511 Bingham Manor fell to the family of Stapleton, as did Rempston and other estates.

1526 A. D. Yet in 1526 Sir Brian Stapleton and his wife, Elizabeth (or Isabel) Rempston, had to fulfill some provisions of that old decision of 1308.

1675 A. D. Brian Stapleton (son of the above?) sold Bingham to Sir Thomas Stanhope, grandfather of Philip, first Earl of Chesterfield, whose grandson, the second Earl, had it about 1675.

CONNECTION WITH ENGLISH NOBILITY

Burke's "Nobility and Gentry of England" mentions several families of Bingham, giving the family crest and the motto, "Spes mea Christus." But however desirable the crest and motto may seem, there appears to be no heraldic right as yet established for the Connecticut Bingham to assume either. For the benefit of those who desire to know how distant the connection is with the nobility of England, the following is given, which can be verified by reference to Burke.

John de Bingham was knighted by King Henry I (1100-35) and from him descended in the line of primogeniture:

This last Robert died in 1561 A. D., leaving 8 sons and 2 daughters. His seventh son was Thomas and there is a supposition that he may have been the ancestor of the American family. This theory is based

1. On the tradition (not yet proved) that he lived in Yorkshire.
2. On the fact that he was contemporaneous with the Thomas Bingham born about 1642 A. D.

But here is the sticking point!

(If there is truth in this theory, he was probably the grandfather of the first Norwich Bingham and father of (0) in this genealogy; and this theory is, at least, possible.—T.A.B.)

IRISH FAMILY TRADITIONS

Among all the Bingham families the writer has met, the tradition has been general that the families came from Ireland. The facts appear to be as follows:

Under date of February 2, 1895, Col. R. Bingham, of Asheville, N. C., writes that his family certainly came from Ireland, as will be seen under the heading of the Irish Bingham family.

General Henry H. Bingham, M.C., of Philadelphia, Pa., is undoubtedly from the same family as the North Carolina Bingham families.

Sir John Edward Bingham, Bart., of Sheffield, England, told the writer February 21, 1894, that the tradition existed in his family, although all he knew was that he came from Chesterfield way.

The writer's grandfather, Cyrus Bingham, used to say that his grandfather, Eleazer, said that the Connecticut family came from Ireland.

There were Bingham families, soldiers, in Ireland in 1586, 1590, 1593, etc. These, or some of them, belonged to the Melcombe-Bingham family of Dorsetshire, still a prominent family. The tombstone of Lieut. Gen. Sir Richard Bingham of this family is in Westminster Abbey. He served in Ireland in Queen Elizabeth's time; and relations of his may, very likely, be ancestors of the present Irish noblemen. A number of Irish Bingham families have been famous soldiers. Lord Raglan was a Bingham; and the earls of Lucan are Bingham families. One of them, George Charles Bingham, b. 1800, d. 1888, was in the "charge of the Light Brigade" at Balaclava.

As shown above, some of the American Bingham families do come of Irish ancestry; but whether the Irish Bingham families date from the time of Queen Elizabeth and the Spanish Armada or from Cromwell's time, the Connecticut Bingham families almost certainly do not come from Irish ancestry of those times; because their forebears were peaceably settled and solidly established in the cutlery business in Sheffield, England, in 1631 A. D. and years before; and the Bingham who first came to Norwich, Conn., was baptized in Sheffield in 1642, as shown by still existing church records.

In 1650, a Col. Nicholas Bingham was in command of Belfast, against Cromwell.

ENGLISH ORIGIN OF THE CONNECTICUT BINGHAMS

On February 21, 1894, the writer saw the well preserved church records at Sheffield, England, and found there recorded decisive evidence as to Thomas, the father of the Norwich settler, as well as to the emigré himself.

The line of evidence is perfect. The tombstone at Windham, Conn. (see p. 144), of the original Thomas Bingham, of Norwich, Conn., records the fact that he came from Sheffield, England, and that his father's name was Thomas.

Upon arrival in Sheffield, I found that the city directory for 1893-4 contained the names of thirty-five Binghams. It was known that the first American Thomas came to Norwich in 1660 A. D. when he was about 18 years old. Also, that in 1642 Sheffield must have been a small town, shown by the said directory to have had then about 2500 inhabitants. Hence, it was argued, there could then have been but one or, at most, two parish churches. It was found that there was then but one parish church, St. Peter's. This still exists and its records were found to be in good order and carefully preserved.

It did not take long to find what I was in search of, viz., date of baptism or birth of the first Norwich, Conn., Bingham, names of his father and mother and date of their marriage.

The record of births was looked up as far back as 1590, but I failed to find that of the Thomas Bingham married in 1631. As my stay in Sheffield was limited, it does not follow that more time spent would not probably have rewarded my search.

While examining the records, I was on the lookout for another family of Binghams living in Sheffield in the early part of the seventeenth century but found none. I incline to the belief from this and other records which were examined that there was only this one family of Bingham in that parish at that time, although the surrounding country was then and still is full of them.

It is to be noted that the mother of the first Norwich Bingham was Anna (corroborated by evidence recently found in America) and not Mary, as given on the Windham tombstone. Her last name was Stenton (not Stanton) and this name was observed on one or two store signs of the present city.

The family name Stenton occurs in St. Peter's records before and after 1600 A. D., but I did not find this Anna among them.

Sheffield, England, has always been noted for its cutlery and was so in 1600 A. D. Now it is well known what the old Trade Guilds were and how honorable was the position of a master in such guilds. In the latter part of the 16th century the master cutlers of Sheffield formed themselves into one association, called the Cutlers' Company, which exists to this day. The records of this Company date from the time of Queen Elizabeth.

In these records I found an entry under date of December 21, 1614, of a Thomas Bingham having been admitted to membership as a master cutler and his trade mark is given as B granted to him.

A Henry Bingham also appears on the record before the above Thomas and he had a trade mark, which I failed to copy.

It appears very probable that the Thomas Bingham above mentioned was the father of the Thomas who was married in 1631 and a grandfather of the first American Thomas; because

1. To become a master cutler required mature age and experience; and he became one in 1614, which would make the date 1631 right for a son of his to be married; and the church records show that a Thomas Bingham was then married and was the father of the first Norwich, Conn., Thomas.
2. Although my examination was not exhaustive, I still found no trace of any other than the Thomas Bingham's family who was married in 1631, in the church records of that parish.

If my surmise be true, our records go back to a Thomas Bingham who must have been, at least, say 40-45 years old in 1614 and that would bring his birth 1574-79, or in Queen Elizabeth's time.

There is no doubt, however, about the descent of the Connecticut Bingham from Thomas Bingham, of Sheffield, England, married July 6, 1631, and therefore born not long after 1600.

A young man and a younger son who was an original settler of a foreign colony such as Norwich, Conn., must have had means from his father to buy into the company. The station of a master cutler of Sheffield in 1660 argues a certain amount of wealth and fits the case exactly. Trades ran in families in those days. The eldest son generally succeeded to and carried on his father's trade; the younger sons using their legacies in other ways. In this case, the grandfather was very well to do, and no doubt the father was in a position to assist his youngest son by buying him a share in the Norwich colony about to be started—or, if dead, before 1658-60, to have left him sufficient money for the purpose.

Rev. Joseph Bingham, who wrote the celebrated "Antiquities of the Christian Church," lived at Wakefield, which was then and still is the place of record for wills. Wakefield, Chesterfield, Mansfield, Sheffield, and all the country round about would, no doubt, richly repay careful search for history of our family before 1631.

East of Nottingham is a railway station called "Bingham's Road."

If the Bingham of Melcombe-Bingham, in Dorset, are connected with the Connecticut Bingham, the branching of the lines will be found much prior to 1600.

SHEFFIELD, ENGLAND

At the time of his visit, in February, 1894, the writer found the following books of value in hunting up the Bingham pedigree, to be bought or seen in public libraries :

1. Sheffield City Directory, 1893-94. Very useful.
2. Hallamshire, etc., History and Topography of Parish of Sheffield, by Joseph Hunter, London, Richard and Arthur Taylor, Shoe Lane. Published by Lackington, Hughes, Harding, Weaver & Jones, Finsbury Square, 1817. This is the standard old book. There is a later and enlarged edition by Rev. Alf. Gatty, D.D., London ; Virtue & Co., Ltd., City Road.

3. Reminiscences of Old Sheffield, by Robert E. Leader, B.A., Sheffield; Leader & Sons, Independent Office, 1875.
4. Sheffield as it is, Historical and Descriptive Handbook, with map, 1852, 6d, J. Pearce, Jun., 24 High St., London; Hamilton & Adams.
5. Local Register, John Thomas, 1830; published by Robert Leader, Sheffield Independent, Angel St.
6. Hall of Waltheof, Sheffield Glossary, by Sidney Oldall Addy, M.A., London; David Nutt, Strand. Sheffield, Wm. Townsend & Son, Surrey St., 1893.
7. Illustrated Guide to Sheffield, John Taylor; Pawson & Brailsford, Sheffield, 1879.
8. Drake's History of York.

There were the following libraries:

1. City Central Free Library.
2. Sheffield Library, Music Hall, Surrey St.

The church where the Connecticut Bingham records are to be found is St. Peter's and Holy Trinity Parish Church, High, Fargate and Church Sts.

A Royal Grammar School was founded at Sheffield in 1603 A. D. by one Thomas Smith. It was incorporated by King James I in 1604. The original school was at the head of Townhead St. It is probable, or at any rate possible, that our ancestors went to this school. The records might be examined.

While the Cutlers' Company, of Sheffield, incorporated by King James I in 1619, still exists, its functions have, of course, changed. It is now rather a "swell" affair, a sort of historical club, and almost entirely composed of rich men, although there is still a strictly business side to it. Each member was, in the old days, a master cutler, and is so still. But the President of the company is styled The Master Cutler of Sheffield, is elected annually, and gives a banquet on election something like that of the Lord Mayors of London. The Sheffield City Directory gives names and dates for all The Master Cutlers. The Bingham come in as follows:

1624 A. D., ——— Bingham.

1881 John Edward Bingham }
1895 Charles Henry Bingham } brothers.

In 1894 there were thirty-five Bingham in the Sheffield City Directory, among them:

John Edward Bingham, Esq., J. P. (electroplate, Walker & Hall, Howard St.); lives at West Lea, Ranmoor Park Road. He was Lieutenant Colonel of the Sheffield Engineer Volunteers (First West York). He was made a baronet in 1903 by King Edward VII, and his title now is (August, 1905) Col. Sir John Bingham, Bart.

He is a fine-looking, tall, sandy-complexioned man, with blue eyes. He said he had heard of the tradition that the family came from Ireland, but he took little interest in such matters. His own family came from near Chesterfield.

He was extremely courteous and celebrated our meeting by opening a bottle. He also invited me to extend my visit and stay at his house, which I regretted much that time would not permit me to do.

He also said he had met a Thomas Bingham of New York and a David Bingham of New York and Liverpool (grain merchants).

I also met his only son, also a big fellow, who much resembled his father, named Albert E. Bingham.

Charles Henry Bingham lived at Brinklands, Cavendish Road.

Sir John came all the way over to Boston at the end of September, 1912, to attend the Congress of Chambers of Commerce and to introduce the following resolution: "That this Congress agrees to the principle of a combination of nations, when and where possible, to endeavor to prevent the atrocities of war."

WILLS

In the year 1905 an attempt was made to ascertain more about our Sheffield ancestors by writing to have wills looked up.

There are no wills proved at Wakefield Registry before A. D.

1858. The earlier wills for the whole of Yorkshire and Nottingham are at the York Registry.

Wills may be looked for in the various Deanery Act Books. For instance, the Deanery of Nottingham. The book of the Deanery of Doncaster, which includes Sheffield, will be found at York.

RECORDS OF THE CUTLERS' COMPANY

Sheffield, England

On February 21, 1894, the compiler of this book copied as follows:

- 1614, before Dec.—A Henry Bingham admitted as a master cutler.
 1614, Dec. 21—A Thomas Bingham admitted as a master cutler and the trade mark B granted him.
 1618—Mr. William Theo. Bingham, in 1903, copied from the records that, in 1618, a William Bingham was given the Honorary Freedom of the Company—with eight other citizens, lawyers, etc.
 1624—A Thomas Bingham was The Master Cutler or President of the Company—a position requiring considerable means to maintain. This is likely to have been the Thomas Bingham mentioned above.

In December, 1905, Mr. J. H. Dalton, Clerk to the company, gave the following Bingham as apprenticed:

- 1631—William Bingham, son of John Bingham, of Stirton, husbandman, (1) to Wm. Mawre, cutler;
 1637—(2) to Henry Osgathorpe, of Grimesthorpe, cutler.
 1637—Francis Bingham, son of John Bingham, of Ragnell, husbandman, to Jas. Houle, cutler.
 1649—Henry Bingham, son of John, to Geo. Carr, cutler.
 1671—John Bingham, son of George Bingham, of Eccleshall, nailer, to Hugh Stevenson, of Walkmill-leyes, cutler.
 1681—Richard Bingham, of Cliffe-field, scythesmith, was granted his freedom. Wm. T. Bingham adds his trade mark R. B and notes that this mark was on the following date, Dec. 21, 1861, reserved for Richard's son, Jeremiah.

1689—Asaac (Isaac) Bingham, son of John Bingham, of Norton, scythesmith, to Robert Wainwright, of Norton Lees, scythesmith.

1697—John Bingham, son of Richard Bingham, of Norton, to Robert Wainwright, above said.

1701—Isaac Bingham granted his freedom. Mr. Wm. T. Bingham says that the records show that on

1701, July 26—his trade mark was registered. (It looks like the “W” of “Wainwright” turned upside down.)

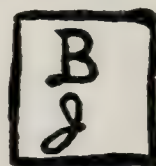

Mr. Wm. T. Bingham further gives from the records:

1703, May 27—Jeremiah Bingham.

Trade mark:

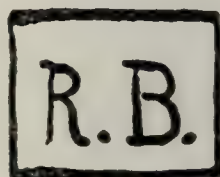

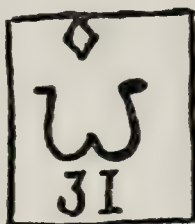

Cutler.

1705, Oct. 27—John Bingham.

Trade mark:

Scythesmith.

1720, Feb. 27—John Bingham.

Trade mark granted:

1748—John Bingham, filesmith, master cutler.

1749, Nov. 25—John Bingham, Jr., silversmith, registered.

Trade mark: ?

A special edition of the records of The Cutlers' Company of Sheffield, England, has been published and a copy placed in the Library of Congress.

RECORDS IN ENGLAND, 1903

In 1903, Mr. Wm. T. Bingham (4992880) visited Sheffield, England, and vicinity and examined records of

(a) St. Peter's and Holy Trinity Parish Church, at Sheffield, for marriages, baptisms and deaths from 1560 to 1700.

(b) The Cutlers' Company of Sheffield.

(c) The records of St. Mary's and All Souls' Church, at Bingham. These are with the rector. They do not go further back than 1598 (or 1508?).

(d) The records at Nottingham, which, however, do not go far enough back. They are with the Town Clerk.

- (e) At Newark lived Mr. Cornelius Brown, editor of the Newark Advertiser, very learned in ancient lore. He has printed two and perhaps more books. He was sure that the original name was "Bing," still existing but rare in England; and that the name came over with one of the Saxon or Danish raids, very likely from the same stock as "Bingen." This agrees with the result of my own studies and results in the fact that all Binghamms of the present day are descendants of men of other names who took the name from the lands. (Bingham means "home of the Bings.")
- (f) York, wills, including Sheffield, 1594-1670. The Doncaster Deanery book is at York.

SAYBROOK, CONNECTICUT

September 1, 1909.

I am indebted to Sir Courtenay Walter Bennett, British Consul General in New York City (1908-9) for much of the following information.

Under date of May 12, 1909, Sir Courtenay communicates the following, received from Judge William Hamersley :

1620 A. D.

The "Council established at Plymouth in the county of Devon for the planting, etc., of New York in America," often called the "Plymouth Company," was erected by the patent granted 3 Nov. 1620 by King James I (1603-1625) to forty patentees named, including Robert, Earl of Warwick, but not Lord Saye and Sele. Copy of this patent will be found in appendix to Vol. I of Trumbull's History of Connecticut, republished by H. D. Utley, New London, Conn., in 1898.

In pursuance of this patent, the Colony of Massachusetts Bay was established.

1631 A. D.

It is claimed that the Earl of Warwick, President of the "Council of Plymouth" (or Plymouth Company), on March 19, 1631 (King Charles I, 1625-49), granted a patent of lands, including a large part of the present State of Connecticut, to Lord Saye and Sele, Lord Brook and others. Copy of this latter patent also to be found as above mentioned.

Governor Winthrop and George Fenwick claimed land and jurisdiction in Connecticut under the grantees named in this latter patent, but its genuineness is still a contested question, according to Judge William Hamersley, who adds that no incorporated company was organized under its provisions.

1635-36.

Note by T. A. B.—The incontrovertible fact remains, however, that there was founded, at the mouth of the Connecticut River, in 1635-36, and remains to this day (1909), a town called Say-Brook, after the two lords above mentioned; and that, between 1630 and 1670, a number of emigrants from England landed there and maintained the settlement.

Sir Courtenay Bennett, at this point, says Worth's History of Plymouth (England) contains the following:

"Conspicuous in the annals of English colonization in North America is the name of the Plymouth Company. Yet there is no portion in our local history about which information is more fragmentary. Plymouth, herself, yields but one single trace in her records of the existence and operations of this once notable organization, which undertook and partially accomplished the settlement of New England."

Under date of June 29, 1909, Sir Courtenay adds:

"The Mayor of Plymouth informs me that he is unable to secure any further information concerning the Company in the Plymouth records."

Under date of December 5, 1905, the U. S. Consul at Plymouth, Mr. Stephens, says:

"A careful investigation of the records on file at the Guildhall, Plymouth, shows no record whatever * * *

"In fact, I am informed by those in a position to know that there never were any records kept which would give the least light on the Pilgrims or the vessels by which they sailed."

Judge William Hamersley says at this point: "The records of this Company [Council of Plymouth or "Plymouth Company"] may be found in England in the custody of some government office."

Under date of January 2, 1906, the U. S. Deputy Consul at Plymouth, Mr. Stephens, writes that he had a personal interview with the Collector of Customs of Plymouth and Superintendent of the Board of Trade for the Plymouth District, and they were both of opinion that there is no record of sailings from Plymouth in existence between 1655 and 1660, but think, perhaps, information may be got by application to

1. Board of Trade Offices, No. 1 Whitehall, London.
2. Register General of Seamen, Carlyle Place, London.

In a letter dated March 9, 1908, Hon. Whitelaw Reid, U. S. Ambassador to England, says:

"So far as I have any reason to know, the Saye and Sele papers are either kept at the seat of the family, Broughton Castle, Banbury, Oxfordshire, or could best be traced from there. The family name is Fiennes. The present Lord Saye and Sele has only recently come into possession of the property, and it is still under lease to a younger brother of the Duke of Richmond and Gordon. Some years ago, I [Mr. Reid] saw an old patent at Broughton Castle, signed by King Charles II [1660-85], restoring the property to the family [Saye and Sele] after it had been confiscated because they took the Parliamentary side in the Civil War. I also saw numbers of the old papers of that day, such as the list of members of the regiment raised in that county by Lord Saye and Sele and led by him in some of the battles, including, I think, Edgehill."

Elsewhere in this book I have given reasons why the father of Thomas Bingham, first Connecticut settler, was probably a Cromwellian. Lord Saye and Sele was the same.

After Cromwell's death, when England was no longer safe for those who had been opposed to the King, what more natural than that the said Thomas Bingham, Cromwellian, should have sailed to the colony of Lord Saye and Sele, another Cromwellian?

Recall also that the said Thomas was a master cutler and had, no doubt, thrived during the troublous times when his political party was uppermost. He certainly had sufficient means to buy into the colony, and while it seems probable that he died on the passage out, his wife and youngest son did arrive, and his widow married Backus soon after.

Mr. Reid continues: "It is therefore reasonable to infer that there are probably papers at Broughton Castle also relating to the Saybrook, Conn., settlement. I fear, however, you will find no indexes, and the task of hunting would be laborious."

Another plan would be to engage B. F. Stevens & Brown, No. 4 Trafalgar Square, London, W. C., to make the search.

SAYBROOK, CONNECTICUT

1620 A. D.—In 1620 the Council of Plymouth was incorporated by King James I (1603-25) and authorized to dispense grants and patents in New England. Lord Saye and Sele and Lord Brook purchased a patent, for what is now Connecticut, from Robert, Earl of Warwick, the President of said Council, in 1631.

1631—Thomas Bingham, father of Thomas, first Connecticut settler, married, in Sheffield, England, Ann Stenton, in 1631.

1635-36—The Town of Saybrook was founded at the mouth of the Connecticut River in 1635-36.

1642—Thomas Bingham, first Connecticut settler, was baptized at Sheffield, England, in 1642.

The Civil War between King Charles I and the Parliament was now getting under way.

1646-60—Rev. James Fitch was minister at Saybrook from 1646 to 1660.

1647—Capt. John Mason, who had been very successful in building Windsor, Conn., and Dorchester, Mass., came by request to Saybrook in 1647 to help build up that colony.

1650—Mr. Hoadley, the State Librarian of Connecticut, informed me (1896) that there were no records of the beginnings of original Saybrook now known to exist. They are supposed to have been burned in a fire at the fort. There is in the State Library at Hartford a book of later records and a manuscript copy of certain Saybrook land records running back to about 1650. These are, however, meagre. Scattered here and there through these land records are other entries and some of baptisms; but among these latter are no Backuses nor Bingham.

There is one record of a Town Meeting held January 7, 1655-56, at which were present persons of the following future Norwich names, viz.: Adgate, Edgerton, Post, Rudd, Backus, Leffingwell, Huntington, Tracy.

1658-59—Meanwhile, Cromwell had conquered and ruled in England, and died 1658-59.

1659—In 1659, Mrs. Ann (Stenton) Bingham and her youngest son, Thomas, 17 years old, arrived in Saybrook. Tradition in one branch of the family says that the father had died on the passage out.

Did they sail from Plymouth or London?

Why did they come? What became of the rest of the family? See under "O" (page 144).

They found an important plan under discussion, this year of 1659. A large number of the Saybrook people, led by Capt. John Mason, the successful colony builder, and Rev. James Fitch, were planning to leave Saybrook and settle at what is now Norwich, Conn.

NORWICH, CONNECTICUT

We know in a general way that the Saybrook people had been in the habit of sailing into the Thames River, as it is now called, and running up it some fifteen miles to a cove which was, later on, the southern boundary of Norwich, and which was called "Trading Cove" long prior to settlement.

The Mohican Indians had a fort near this cove, and as far back as 1645 had been attacked there by their enemies, the Narragansetts. Uncas, the Mohican chief, sent a runner to his friends, the English, at Saybrook, asking provisions and aid. Thomas Leffingwell loaded a canoe and relieved Uncas.

This shows a rather intimate acquaintance between Saybrook and the site of the future Norwich, which was a rolling, well-watered and well-wooded hunting country, back at a safe distance of fifteen miles from the mouth of the river—as compared with the flat, salt, marshy Saybrook, directly on the ocean shore and infested with mosquitoes and malaria, as it is to this day.

1659 A. D.—In May, 1659, application had been made to the General Court of Connecticut for permission to settle at Norwich. Sanctioned by enactment at Hartford, May 20, 1659. No copy of the petition has been preserved. A list of the signers would be invaluable.

In June, 1659, a deed was obtained from the Mohican Indian chief, Uncas, to nine miles square for seventy pounds. Surveys and allotments were made.

Perhaps a little later, but at any rate about this time, the widow Bingham had chosen among her suitors (for she was not only a widow, but had property), and had chosen with pro-

SOME PROPRIETORS' ORIGINAL HOME LOTS BETWEEN THE GREEN & "BEAN HILL" (WESTVILLE).

NOTES

1. The roads and river are fairly correct, being laid down from survey notes by Wm. Lester Jr. for his map of 1833 (Mag. Decl. 6° 27' West) kindly furnished by Chas. E. Chandler, Esq. of Norwich.
2. The sequence of lots is correct but fences have often widely differing lengths in the old records, making them impossible to scale correctly.
3. The length of street agrees fairly well with recorded lot fronts. But the river length by record is much shorter than by survey. Hence lost spaces.
4. Dimensions are in rods and as of record. Figures in () are estimated, not being found of record.

priety. She married William Backus, Sr., himself a widower with grown children. He and young Thomas Bingham were among the original proprietors of Norwich.

On August 15, 1659, a further deed of cession was obtained from Uncas and his brother—perhaps an amended deed with better boundaries.

1663—The original deed of Norwich is not extant. A copy was, however, recorded at Hartford in March, 1663. The bounds were reviewed and renewed in October, 1685, and there was a new deed signed October 5, 1685, by the Indians and the settlers.

The new settlement at Norwich actually took place in the Spring of 1660. Among the original settlers were William Backus, Sr.; wife, Ann (Stenton) Bingham.

Thomas Bingham, stepson of William Backus, Sr., “alone”—that is, having no wife nor children.

It is not known how the name “Norwich” came to be adopted. Mr. William Backus, Sr., said to have been the oldest settler and the first to die in the new settlement, is said to have come from Norwich, England (as did also two Huntington brothers), and perhaps the name was given out of compliment to him. It is probable some one or more of the settlers did come from Old Norwich. This name was first used officially in March, 1660-61. Before that the place was called “Mohegan.”

The word Norwich is Northwic—a Saxon name meaning “North-castle.” Here refer to Miss Caulkins’ History of Norwich, which has a map showing the lay-out of the village lots to the original proprietors, 1660.

The lot assigned to young Thomas Bingham was “four acres, a strip running from the street to the river.” His mother, now Mrs. William Backus, Sr., lived about half a mile east of her son, on the road leading to the present Norwich city. In November, 1919, the following exact description was found at Norwich, Conn., in the Town Clerk’s office:

“Book of Grants, page 138 (entered in 1692)—
Lands belonging unto Thomas Bingham, of Norwich, and his heirs and assigns:

- (1) His house lot, 4 acres more or less, abutting
 - (a) Northerly, on the highway.....15 rods
 - (b) Easterly, on home lot of Sergt. Thomas
Waterman32 rods
 - (c) Southerly, on the (Yantic) river.....16 rods
 - (d) Westerly, on the land of John Post.....44 rods
 Lay'd out in 1659."

Then follows a list of other lands amounting to much more than 265 acres additional.

WINDHAM, CONNECTICUT

The Mohegan chief, Uncas, gave to his third son, Joshua, the land between "Appaquage" and Willimantic rivers. Joshua died in 1676 and left a will bequeathing this land to Capt. John Mason, of Norwich, and fifteen other colonists, "in trust for a plantation."

1678 A. D.—In May, 1678, the General Assembly of Connecticut accepted the will and allowed the Norwich legatees to have these lands, which were later incorporated as the township of Windham.

1682—The legatees met in Norwich, February 17, 1682, and signed an agreement among themselves.

1685—They met again in February, 1685, and agreed to settle in three places and determined a general plan.

1686—Surveys and divisions were completed in the Spring of 1686. The lay-out was in forty-eight shares, each of 1,000 acres. Each share included a home lot in one of the three places designed for villages, also meadow, pasture and upland in various localities. The sites selected for villages were:

- (1) The "southeast quarter" or "Hither Place" (because nearest to Norwich)—now Old Windham; located on the west side of Old Windham Street.
- (2) The "Ponde Place," northwest of "Hither Place" and now Mansfield Center.
- (3) The valley of the Willimantic river, near the site of the present city of Willimantic, west of "Hither Place" and

WINDHAM, CONNECTICUT

The Mohegan chief, Uncas, gave to his third son, Joshua, the land between "Appaquage" and Willimantic rivers. Joshua died in 1676 and left a will bequeathing this land to Capt. John Mason, of Norwich, and fifteen other colonists, "in trust for a plantation."

1678 A. D.—In May, 1678, the General Assembly of Connecticut accepted the will and allowed the Norwich legatees to have these lands, which were later incorporated as the township of Windham.

1682—The legatees met in Norwich, February 17, 1682, and signed an agreement among themselves.

1685—They met again in February, 1685, and agreed to settle in three places and determined a general plan.

1686—Surveys and divisions were completed in the Spring of 1686. The lay-out was in forty-eight shares, each of 1,000 acres. Each share included a home lot in one of the three places designed for villages, also meadow, pasture and upland in various localities. The sites selected for villages were:

- (1) The "southeast quarter" or "Hither Place" (because nearest to Norwich)—now Old Windham; located on the west side of Old Windham Street.
- (2) The "Ponde Place," northwest of "Hither Place" and now Mansfield Center.
- (3) The valley of the Willimantic river, near the site of the present city of Willimantic, west of "Hither Place" and in the "crotch" of the Willimantic and Náchaug rivers (forming the Shetucket river).

1686, May 1—The legatees met to receive their allotments.

1687—It was ordered that the "Hither Place" be fenced in, but the drought was such that it could not be done.

1688, Autumn—Came the first settler, John Cates, an English refugee, flying from the spies of Sir Edmund Andros—and a man whom tradition represents as a high political offender, a Commonwealth soldier and even a regicide.

1689—King James II was deposed, William (of Orange) and Mary enthroned, and Andros driven away. Cates came out of hiding (in a cave) and bought an allotment of Daniel Mason (lot No. 3) at the "Hither Place," and in the summer of 1689, built the first house in the new plantation.

None of the original legatees took possession of their allotments. They sold them or gave them to kinsmen.

1691, May 18—First public meeting of settlers recorded. All but Ripley and Cates were from Norwich.

1691, Autumn—The settlers, now thirty in number, petitioned the General Assembly to be formed into a town.

1692, May 12—Petition granted; June 12—First Town Meeting.

1692-93, Winter—Many new settlers arrived (easy sledging). The house of John Fitch (lot No. 9) was to be used as a meeting house until other provisions should be made (Larned, I-69).

1693, Jan. 1—Rev. Samuel Whiting arrived; May 30—Town Meeting, which enrolled a list of "admitted and approved" inhabitants, among them "Thomas Bingham" (1) from Norwich.

1697, Feb.—Voted that the meeting house should be at "the next convenient place to y^e north of John Backus his house" (Larned, I-79). This was lot No. 14.

1698, Jan.—Voted a new pound (for stray cattle) to be at the southeast corner of Richard Hendee's house (lot No. 10).

1699—After much wrangling among the three villages as to where the meeting house should be, and dissatisfaction at one decision which had been reached to have it at the "Crotch" or

"Center," it was now proposed to have one at "Hither Place" as well as at the other places.

1700, Jan. 30—Larned says (Vol. I, p. 82): The front part of William Backus' home lot (No. 9, not 14; see map) was purchased by Rev. Samuel Whiting and Ensign (Jonathan) Crane and made over to the Town for a "meeting house plat or common." This was the beginning of "Windham Green." The bounds were later enlarged. The Dingley house was one mile north of the "Green."

1701—Additional land was annexed to Windham in the direction of Norwich, as also the meadows west of the Shetucket (now, 1915, Willimantic) river, between Windham and Lebanon.

1701, Sept. 23—Boundary settled between Windham and Lebanon.

1702, Dec. 23—Town meeting voted that "the land east from Goodman Broughton's [probably across from lot No. 9, on east side of the 'Street'] south from Thomas Huntington's and north of the road by Goodman Broughton's, extending to three or four acres of land onto Stony Plaine, should lay common to perpetuity."

1703, Apl.—First meeting house at "Hither Place" completed. It was small, only about twenty feet square, and its location is now (1915) unknown.

1713-14—New meeting house completed at "Hither Place."

CHARACTERISTICS OF CONNECTICUT BINGHAMS

In appearance, almost all will be found of good height, and the taller, the nearer they are to the New England stock. All are slender and physically strong. In complexion, there seem to be two types:

- (1) Blue or brown eyes, with almost black to brown hair, sometimes very light brown.
- (2) Blue eyes, reddish hair, ruddy complexion.

The following is from Missouri:

"It is plain they were in every case the reverse of illiterate. They evidently possessed an education better than common, though many of them could not possibly have had much school training. There is no probability that they come from any aristocracy of birth or of wealth. The Bingham of our race have almost without exception clung to the country instead of the town.

"While not prone to lay up wealth, they have always had plenty, lived well and been 'good providers,' and each has done this himself, as a result of his own efforts, as a rule.

"I think I can truly say they have all been good, strong, kindly men and gentle women.

"Never was there a Bingham of this line who was not absolutely fearless in word and action in upholding or defending what he thought was the right. In fact, their opinions once formed, they have been so tenacious in holding to them that one hears many times in Missouri of the 'Bingham stubbornness.' "

The following is written of a Reverend Doctor (Methodist) of Central New York—and not by a member of the family:

"His voice was strong and, while not deep, was penetrating. His personal appearance was striking, resembling to some extent that of a monk of refinement and culture.

"In his family he was a wise and sympathetic father and always an entertaining and enjoyable companion, actively sympathizing in the joys and sorrows of his children.

"In temperament he was exceedingly intense. What he saw, he saw so clearly and so vividly that it flashed back upon him and stirred his mind. This, to a stranger, gave him the appearance of one incapable of compromise or adjustment. He was a very determined man, not intentionally obstinate, but fixed in his convictions and almost immovable in his estimates of men, measures and motives.

"His mastery of forcible English was remarkable.

"His benignity, under ordinary circumstances, attractive.

"When no subject upon which his feelings were stirred was under consideration, and no forensic conflict impending, no large plan, to which he was committed, obstructed, his geniality and versatility made intercourse with him delightful.

"But he could put himself in battle array with celerity, and the change that then took place was interesting to the spectator, and much more so to one whose convictions would lead him to a different opinion or attitude.

"In pastoral work, all that was best, brightest and most sympathetic found free course. To the sick, he was tender; to the broken in spirit, he was a support.

"In management of business he mixed sternness and affability in due proportion. At no period of his life was he to be trifled with. He was a builder in the church, a man of sagacity, foresight and enterprise. What he undertook and became responsible for, he attended to, and was competent for any position where executive talents were essential."

Mr. D. H. Bingham, who collected so much of the family history, used to send circulars and write to various branches of the family for genealogical information. He found that his best help came from the distaff side, and so he was in the habit of adding a little flattery about the "tradition" that the "Bingham girls were noted for their beauty and musical talents, etc."

One day he received this reply, which must have made him chuckle. His correspondent, Miss Emily Clark, daughter of Lydia Bingham (10811), after referring to the usual flattery, above quoted, says:

"I have heard a remark made of the men bearing that name, not so complimentary—which is that they are tyrannical in nature and practice. I know instances of its truth—possibly from our supposed ancestor, the Bishop of Salisbury. Bishops generally love power. I say this as a member of the Episcopal church."

PART III

EXPLANATION OF SYSTEM OF RECORD AND RULE FOR THE NUMBERS

Every individual of the family has been assigned a number if sufficient data were known by which to calculate it.

Every person of whom more than two lines of information is known has a separate page devoted to him or her, numbered with the number of the person at the top, in consecutive order, corresponding to the index of first names.

Note.—This method permits of easy additions and insertions. The numbering of the pages of the book is a separate matter and is at the bottom of the pages.

Ten (10) children are reckoned to each family except when it is known that there were less or no children.

Up to 292, numbers have been assigned by close observance of the above paragraph, keeping as small numbers as possible.

To calculate the numbers for children. If the number of the parent exceeds 292, but does not exceed 4757, multiply it by 10, subtract 500 from the product, and the result will be the number of the eldest child.

If the number of the parent exceeds 4757, multiply it by 10, subtract 520 from the product, and the result will be the number of the eldest child.

Small “p” before a number indicates that a separate page will be found with that number at the top.

WILLIAM BINGHAM

Member of the Continental Congress.

Wm Bingham

U. S. SENATOR WILLIAM BINGHAM, OF PHILADELPHIA

For whom the city of Binghamton, New York, was named. He was also the owner of estates in Maine, only recently settled

Born April 8, 1752

Died 1804

INDEX NO. 3

Binghamton, Broome County, New York, was founded by U. S. Senator William Bingham, of Philadelphia, of Revolutionary times, who also had the grant of one million acres in Maine, which was only, about the year 1900, finally sold off and settled up by a firm of lawyers in Ellsworth, Me., one member of which firm was U. S. Senator Eugene Hale, Sr.

A STRAY THOMAS BINGHAM

There is a book, "The Chantry Priest of Barnet," by Rev. Alfred J. Church, M.A., published by Dodd, Mead & Co., New York, 1884.

It is an historical novel covering the period from A. D. 1468 and forward. It is supposed to be a journal of events in the life of a monk of St. Albans named Thomas Aylmer. The epilogue is supposed to be written March 1, 1559, by Thomas Bingham, another monk of St. Albans, put out at the dissolution by Henry VIII and now on pension of nine marks a year. This Thomas Bingham writes as a grandson of Thomas Aylmer's sister.

Thomas Bingham claims to have been present at the death of Thomas Aylmer, who gave him the half of his books.

Barnet is not far north of London, and was the scene of a great battle of the Roses on Easter, 1471.

The above is no proof that there was such a person as Thomas Bingham, but it shows that the name was one of the period or Rev. Church would not have used it—and it is quite possible that Rev. Church may have found such name in the old records of St. Albans or of Barnet, and made use of it for his literary needs.

This suggests another line of investigation for the genealogist who is looking up the record of Binghams.

The following dates and facts are from Sheffield records. The arrangement is quite possible and even probable but not certain.

NOTE by W. T. BINGHAM.

"Alias" is used in Sheffield records to identify an apprentice, and in other English record refers to the maiden name of a married woman. I did not find "in the firm of."

-2 THOMAS BINGHAM, "alias" Cooper or Cowper, meaning "in the firm of."

John, who had dau. Elizabeth, bapt. March 9, 1581-2.

The above Thomas (-2) may have had a brother Oliver Bingham, "of Sheffield."

d. Aug. 3, 1616.

m. Elizabeth Spenser, to whom administration of his estate was given Oct. 3, 1616, as there was no will. See Doncaster book at York.

The following dates and facts are from Sheffield records. The arrangement is quite possible and even probable but not certain.

0 Thomas, son of Thomas Bingham, bapt. Aug. 4, 1588.

It is quite certain that the lack of further records about this family in the Sheffield Parish Church records is due to the fact that they lived much at other places, the most probable place being East Retford, Notts. For instance, in the Retford book at York, fol. 237, there is notice of a Mary Bingham, "alias" Cooper or Cowper, dau. of Thomas, dated Apl. 22, 1635, being a provision for tuition, etc. This is a probable indication of the death of her father, Thomas, earlier in 1635.

The following dates and facts are from Sheffield records. The arrangement is certain, except possibly in the cases of Elizabeth Woodhouse and the first child, Thomas.

CHILDREN (second wife)

The following is certain.

Abel, bapt. May 14, 1632.

He had a dau. Anna, bapt. Sept. 11, 1653.

Stephen, bapt. Dec. 26, 1633.

Edward, bapt. March 28, 1636. Buried July 16, 1643.

Robert, bapt. Dec. 11, 1638.

Elizabeth, bapt. Oct. 18, 1640. Buried July 22, 1641.

1 Thomas, first American Connecticut ancestor, bapt. June 5, 1642.

Anna, bapt. Nov. 5, 1644. Buried Jan. 14, 1646.

Mary, bapt. July 2, 1648.

The above would make the father of the first American ancestor about 70 years old in 1658 and would thus fall in with the tradition that he died on the voyage to America.

The records of the "Cutlers' Company" of Sheffield, England, showed, Feb. 21, 1894, a Henry Bingham admitted as a master cutler before December, 1614.

December 21, 1614, a THOMAS BINGHAM was admitted as master cutler and the trade mark B was granted him. (Queen Elizabeth, 1558-1603; King James I, 1603-25.)

It was probably this Thomas Bingham who was "The Master Cutler" of Sheffield in 1624 A. D.

The following data were copied by the writer from the records of St. Peter's and Holy Trinity Parish Church, Sheffield, England, Feb. 21, 1894:

0 THOMAS BINGHAM and Anna Stenton married July 6. 1631.

 Considerable search of later baptisms showed no more of this family.

Miss Calkins, in her "History of Norwich," says:

"Thomas Bingham and Mary (?sic) his wife lived in Sheffield, Yorkshire, England, in the early part of the seventeenth century, as is proved by an inscription on the tombstone of their son in Windham, Conn. Whether there were other children is not known."

(The above data show who the unknown children were.—T. A. B.)

By tradition in the New Hampshire branch of the family, which other circumstances tend to confirm, Thomas (0) died on the passage out to America (Saybrook) in 1659. Widow Anna (Stenton) Bingham and her son Thomas (1) did arrive there in that year. [See under Thomas (1).]

The widow married William Backus, Sr., in Saybrook, and they went to Norwich in 1660.

The inventory of the estate of William Backus, Sr. [see under (1)], gives "cutler's tools and ivory," which Mrs. (Bingham) Backus may have brought with her, of her first husband's possessions—all of which fits in with the trade of cutlery in the Bingham family in Sheffield.

TOMBSTONE OF THOMAS BINGHAM (1)
In Windham, Conn.

In a list of passengers who took ship from England to Barbadoes, April 14, 1635, was a William Bingham, 18 years old. (New England Hist. and Geneal. Register, 1860, p. 350.)

There is as yet no further proof that the Thomas Bingham first mentioned above was the father of Thomas (0), but it is more than probable. The ages of the two men and the dates and places of record fit.

We know that Thomas (1) was the first Connecticut ancestor, because his tombstone in Windham, Conn., reads as follows:

Here lies y^e body of that Holy Man of God
Deacon Thomas Bingham
He was a Man Eminent for Piety Love & Charity
He was y^e son of
Mr. Thomas & Mrs. Mary Bingham,
Liveing in Sheffield, in Yorkshier, England
He dyed Jan. 16th 1729-30
In y^e 88 year of his age.

and from recorded facts of Saybrook and Norwich, Conn., history. The name of his mother was not Mary, but Anna, the proof of which is given under Thomas (1).

Let us now consider the facts and "traditions" connected with the emigration, and in this connection refer, for comparison, to the chapters on the foundation of the colonies at Saybrook, Norwich, etc., in this book at page 74.

Mr. William L. Weaver, of Willimantic, Conn., who compiled the beginnings of the Bingham and many other genealogies in 1863, quotes the following as furnished him by "the venerable Col. Elijah Bingham (4205), of East Haddam, Conn., who had it from his father":

"Two brothers came from England and took up their residence in New London, but soon one of them died and his family returned to England. The other brother, whose name was Thomas, soon removed to Windham, where he lived and died, leaving seven sons. All were over six feet in height and all lived to great age and died in succession as born. They were all religious men, puritanical in their principles, and much renowned as musicians and singers.

"It will be remembered that their father came to America in the time of Cromwell, and that their mother, Mary Rudd, was very musically talented."

Col. Elijah adds that a descendant of the brother who died in New London, and whose family returned to England, came back afterwards to America, settled in Philadelphia, and became a wealthy man.

Mrs. Mary Sprague (Bingham) Brown (47082), of Andover, Tolland County, Conn., said (July, 1895) that the first American Thomas Bingham came over "in company with one brother," and she has proved quite accurate in other data of family history. Her "tradition" of brothers, handed down in her branch of the family, agrees with Col. Elijah Bingham's remarks and with "tradition" in one Vermont and several New Hampshire branches of the family.

In my humble judgment, however, none of the above "traditions," so far as they relate to emigration, is to be relied on. As experience in genealogical work broadens and increases, it becomes very evident to the honest worker that family "tradition" must be accepted with great caution unless supported by indisputable facts. To begin with, there is always an exaggerated and eulogistic tone in these statements which must be at once discounted. Then the cold logic of evidence must be rigidly followed, no matter whither it leads; and this will sometimes prove that even tombstone inscriptions are wrong. By no means are such family "traditions" to be disregarded. They often prove to be true and are frequently valuable in hints and suggestions as to what the facts do really prove. But they are not reliable without further proof.

New London was first settled in 1645-46, and Miss Caulkins, in her history of the town, remarks on "the entire absence of all Custom House records or shipping lists." (They may have been and probably were all burned in the raid by Benedict Arnold after he had deserted to the British, in 1781.)

Hence it is as impossible to verify as it is to disprove a possible arrival in New London of the "two brothers" Bingham.

But they do not appear anywhere in the existing records, which they were bound to do if "residents," and certainly, under any circumstances, could have made only a short stay.

But again, "Ye Antient Buriall Place" of New London, published by Dr. Prentis, contains no record of a Bingham, and adds: "The list comprises all that are known to have died in the settlement, of mature age, before 1660."

Finally, we have positive record of Thomas Bingham, from the age of 17, at other places. He was at Saybrook with a widowed mother in 1659. She married one of the first settlers of Norwich, and was there with her son Thomas in 1660. Thomas is of record in Norwich until 1693, and then of record in Windham until his death in 1729-30. But Col. Elijah makes no mention of Norwich, where Thomas Bingham spent over thirty-three years of his life and where all of his children were born!

It is, of course, physically possible that two of Thomas' older brothers may have visited New London. But the Bingham who founded the Philadelphia family died there in 1714, and his name was James, and the first Norwich settler, Thomas, had no brother of that name, as records show. So that, while it is, again, physically possible that the Philadelphia James was a "descendant" of a man who may have died at New London, and whose family returned to England, still, it is straining record and known facts too much to credit that "tradition," even when supported by such respectable members of the family as Col. Elijah and Mrs. Brown.

There is another "tradition," however, which, while subject to as much lack of proof as the others, has this merit, namely, that it tends to fill a gap in the records; while the others are contrary to actual records.

Belding Dart Bingham (15053), founder of the Nashua, N. H., Watch Factory (later transferred to Waltham, Mass.), in a letter of 21 July, 1870, to Walter F. Bingham (442525), whose work was one of the main sources of this history, which letter I have seen, says there was the "tradition" in his branch of the family that the father of Thomas, first Norwich settler, died on the passage out to America.

This would explain why my correspondent (Arthur V. Hudson, Minster Yard, York, England), in November, 1905, reports that he cannot find any record of a will of a Sheffield Bingham between 1624-60 at the Deanery of Doncaster, the place of record.

This also explains how Thomas, first settler, could, before being of age, arrive in America with his widowed mother and have sufficient means to buy into the Norwich colony. If the father started to America with his wife and youngest son, it would perhaps explain why Widow Bingham had not found a home with her older sons in England.

It is more than probable that the Sheffield Bingham, cutlers, were Cromwellians, because

- (a) They went to the Puritan colonies just after Cromwell's death.
- (b) Their history shows that they fitted easily into the strict Puritan life of the Connecticut colonies.
- (c) They had property enough left, after the civil wars in England, to buy in as proprietors in a new colony.
- (d) They went to a colony, Saybrook, named after two prominent Cromwellian leaders.

Had the Sheffield Bingham been Cavaliers, it would have been much more natural for them to emigrate to the more congenial atmosphere of the Virginia colony, at that particular time. This presupposes that, having been on the losing side, they had retained property enough to buy into the colony—a doubtful question. Because it is far from probable or even possible that Sheffield cutlers, even if high in the Guild, were landed gentry.

It is not as yet known what became of our young Thomas' four elder brothers and of his two sisters. If the father was fleeing to America with his wife and youngest son, perhaps his two daughters, who would have been young girls, if alive, and only one of marriageable age, were dead ; and perhaps the other boys had been killed in the wars.

Summing up all the above, it is certain that Thomas Bingham, first Connecticut^r settler, marked (1), arrived with only his widowed mother at Saybrook, Conn., during the year 1659, when he was 17 years old ; and that he was identical with the Thomas (1) given under (0) as baptized in 1642.

HISTORY

(To be compared with No. (0) preceding.)

Hinman says the name "Bingham" is first found in Connecticut at Saybrook.

It is certain that the above Thomas Bingham, first Connecticut settler, arrived with his widowed mother only, in Saybrook, Conn., during the year 1659 A. D., when he was 17 years old.

In her "History of Norwich," Miss Caulkins (p. 158) says: "Before removing to Norwich, he (William Backus, Sr.) married Mrs. Anne Bingham and brought with him to the new settlement three daughters, two sons and his wife's son, Thomas Bingham. The three young men were of mature age, or near maturity, and are all usually reckoned as first proprietors (of Norwich). The daughters were subsequently united in marriage to John Reynolds, Benjamin Crane and John Bayley."

Also, "The death of Mrs. Anne Backus is registered with the Bingham family, thus: 'Mrs. Anne Backus, mother of Thomas Bingham, Sr., died in May, 1670.' "

In her "First Settlers of Norwich," Miss Perkins says:

p. 4. "Thomas Bingham, stepson of W. Backus, Sr., alone," that is, having no wife nor children. Also:

"W. Backus, Sr.; wife, Ann Bingham; child, Stephen (Backus)."

[Note by T. A. B.—There was also a second son, William Backus, Jr.]

p. 66. "Wm. Backus, one of the original settlers of Norwich, is supposed to have been an inhabitant of Saybrook as early as 1637; and just before removing to Norwich he married Ann, widow of Thomas Bingham. On his arrival at Norwich, his household probably consisted of his wife Ann (Bingham), his son Stephen Backus (by first wife) and his stepson Thomas Bingham."

p. 414. "1. Wm. Backus, b. ———; d. before 1664 (see Caulkins, p. 132). He was a smith or cutler.
m. 1. Sarah Charles, dau. of John Charles, of Brantford, Conn. (Caulkins, p. 157-8). She d. at Saybrook before 1659.
m. 2. Before 1660, Ann (——) Bingham, widow of Thomas."

Weaver says: "We find by the records of Norwich that Ann (Stenton) (Bingham) Backus, mother of Thomas Bingham, Sr. (1), died May, 1670. She was a widow and the second wife of the first William Backus of Norwich."

Now, the tombstone of the first American Thomas Bingham, which is still (A. D. 1926) to be seen in Windham, and the inscription on which is given under (0) on p. 144 of this book, and is also quoted in Caulkins—all these give his mother's name as Mary.

But the Sheffield records which I found and copied make it ANN. Weaver, Caulkins and Perkins make it ANN. It was this Thomas' wife's name that was Mary.

How the tombstone inscription came to be wrong, as it surely is, I cannot explain. It will appear later that this Thomas Bingham married into a Saybrook family.

A. D. 1660—Thomas Bingham's house lot at Norwich bears date of April, 1660, though he could not then have been more than 18 years old (see historical chapter on Norwich, p. — this book). Miss Caulkins' "History of Norwich" contains a map (see p. 76 of this book) showing how the town was originally laid out and apportioned, and giving the names of the original proprietors: "Thomas Bingham, four acres; a strip running from the street to the river."

In November, 1919, the following exact description was found at Norwich, Conn., in the Town Clerk's office:

"Book of Grants, page 138 (entered in 1692).

Lands belonging unto Thomas Bingham (1), of Norwich, and his heirs and assigns.

1. His house lot, four acres, more or less, abutting
 - (a) Northerly, on the highway.....15 rods
 - (b) Easterly, on home lot of Sergt. Thomas
Waterman32 rods
 - (c) Southerly, on the (Yantic) river.....16 rods
 - (d) Westerly, on the land of John Post.....44 rods
lay'd out in 1659."

Then follows a list of other lands amounting to much more than 265 acres additional.

1671—In 1671 he was made "free" from Norwich by the General Court.

1676—In 1676 he was Townsman or Overseer of the west end of Norwich; that is, a kind of police officer under the constable.

1681—In 1681 he was on the list of Freemen as accepted by the General Court of the colony.

1683—In 1683 he was constable at Norwich.

1690—In 1690 he still lived at Norwich, for his youngest child, Stephen (12), was born there.

Weaver says of the history of Thomas Bingham while a resident of Norwich, and of his eldest son, Thomas (2), the only child who remained there, but little information is to be found.

We now come to Thomas Bingham's (1) removal from Norwich to Windham, with all of his family except the eldest son, Thomas (2), to whom he gave, apparently, all of his landed property at Norwich. See Norwich Land Records at Norwich, Conn., including Original Book of Grants, pp. 138, 139, 140, 141, 337.

Thomas (2) was now (1693) twenty-six years old, and had been married about a year.

Let us now take up Windham Land and Town Meeting and other records at Willimantic, Conn.

1693, March 22—(Town Meeting Record, old, p. 5) :

Voted to Thomas Bingham (1), his heirs and assigns, an allotment. [1000 acres.—T. A. B.]

(Town Meeting Record, p. 27; also Book D, p. 25) :

"Sould to Thomas Bingham, senr., of Norwich, his heirs and assigns, an alotment as a legate at the south-east part of the town, by Cap't. John Mason's first lot, in consideration of 14 pounds of provision pay in hand towards the charge of the mill."

Also on page 27 :

1693, April 20—"Received of Thomas Bingham (1), senr., of Norwich, the full and inst sum of 14 pounds in curant provisions, the which was the price and purchase of his an a Lottment in the south-east quarter of the town of Windham. We say received by Us as trustees to De-fray the town Charges to the Corne Mill.

1693, April 20th (or 21th).

JONATHAN GININGS, JOHN BACKUS."

(The latter had married Mary (4), daughter of Thomas Bingham (1), the year before.)

1693, May 30—Grant confirmed by the Proprietors of the Town, at which date he was a resident, and his name is on the first list of twenty-two "approved inhabitants" of this date. (Town Meeting Records, I, p. 27) :

"Whereas this Towne of Windham granted unto Thomas Bingham (1), Senr., an Allotment for the which he hath made payment, wch hath been wholly improved for publique benefit and now that the sd. Bingham may have a more formal and legal assurance of the accomodations, with all divisions and privileges as belong to other Inhabitants The Towne doe therefore fully and firmly Impower me Joshua Ripley for and in their names to GIVE unto ye sd. Thomas Bingham, senr. (1) a firme legall Deed of the sd. Accomodations to him, his heirs and assigns forever. Voated May ye 30th 1693.

Att

JAMES FITCH

Assis.

At this time Thomas Bingham (1) was about 51 years of age (b. 1642), and he can be traced for thirty years as Sergeant, Selectman and Deacon of the First Church.

1693, May 30—At this same Town Meeting he was chosen one of a committee to discourse with the Rev. Samuel Whiting regarding his settlement in Windham. Whiting appears not yet to have been ordained, and the records show there was considerable bargaining as to his salary and allowances, before ordination and afterwards. (Town Meeting Records, I, pp. 29, 30, 31 and 32.)

Whiting was the minister of the First Church in Windham for many years, and was deeply and continually engaged in real estate transactions—hardly a page of the old land records but bears his name. He also had trouble in collecting his salary and allowances of wood, provisions, etc.

1693, May 30—Thomas Bingham (1) received his home lot at the south end of Windham Street (Hither Place), on the west side of the street and at the corner where roads diverged to Lebanon and Norwich, and to what is now Scotland R. R. station.

The home lot was next south of Capt. John Mason's first lot (No. 1), and contained about thirty-three acres (see map).

1694, Feb.—Received nineteen acres of pasture, opposite and across the street, on its east side.

1695—Received three acres more home lot, in the shape of a triangle, and adjoining on the south, between the original home lot and the road to Lebanon and Norwich.

Also was chosen one of the Selectmen of the Town, and is then called Sergeant Thomas Bingham.

1696—Received seven acres more of pasture, adjoining his former grant and south of it.

1696, July 1—Took inventory of the estate of Jonathan Fowler, of Windham.

1697, Nov. 10—The will of John Cates (lot No. 3) made Thomas Bingham (1) "Overseer." But on this date he refused to act, saying he "had not intermeddled with that affair yet."

Some insight into the reasons which may have led to this refusal will be found in the historical chapter on the early settlement of Windham, in another part of this book (p. 78).

Cates had considerable property and left a number of legacies. The two silver communion cups for which he provided were, in October, 1916, at the Windham National Bank at Willimantic, Conn.

The school authorities still receive (in 1916) an income from one of Cates' legacies, for their school funds.

1699—In May, 1699, he was one of three signers of a petition to the General Court for church organization. This petition was at once granted.

1700—At the organization of the First Church in Windham, 10 Dec., 1700, he was one of the original members and was chosen to be one of three deacons, which office he held until his death.

In the will of John Abbe, dated 10 Dec., 1700, he is referred to as "Goodman Bingham."

1703—At the "seating of the meeting house, 19 April, 1703, by "reason of his age and office he occupied the most honourable position—the seat at the right hand of his wife in the pew.”

That Deacon Bingham was one of the most prominent and respected settlers is evident from the positions he occupied and from the deference that was paid him; and he may fairly be considered one of the civil and religious fathers of the town.

Larned's "History of Windham County," says, Vol. I, p. 71 and seq.: "Thomas Bingham, who had removed from Norwich with a large family of sons and daughters, was an important acquisition (to Windham). He was among those who lived at 'Hither Place,' or in the south-east quarter of the town."

An old map, copied in Larned's book, shows "Bingham's Brook" just north-west of Windham Green and emptying into the Willimantic river.

In 1859 a "Jubilee" was held at Norwich, Conn., to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the founding of the town.

Pres. Daniel Coit Gilman delivered the historical discourse. This and others delivered at the time have been collected and bound into one volume, to be found in most libraries of the State of Connecticut and containing a facsimile of the signature of the original Thomas Bingham of Norwich, written, apparently, in 1696! Who had or has the written papers of Thomas, first settler, from which that signature was obtained?

Thomas Bingham

MARRIAGE

Deacon Thomas Bingham married Mary Rudd, 12 Dec., 1666. She is supposed to have been the daughter of Lieut. Jonathan Rudd, of Saybrook, and his wife Mary, who was the then celebrated "bride of Bride Brook." (See Caulkins' "History of Norwich" and also "History of New London," pp. 48-49.)

Mary Rudd was b. ———, 1649, and d. 4 or 5 Aug., 1726.

In a deed recorded at Saybrook (Caulkins), Nathaniel Rudd calls Lieut. Jonathan Rudd his father, and in a similar instrument recorded at Norwich, Thomas Bingham speaks of Nathaniel Rudd as his brother. Hence it is inferred that Mary Rudd Bingham was daughter of Lieut. Jonathan Rudd.

Some of the Rudds were noted for their musical talents, and it is possible, says Weaver, that the musical faculty which has been prominent in some branches of the Bingham family may have been derived from Mary Rudd.

Weaver says that, of the above family of eleven children, all married and all had families but Jonathan. All settled in Windham except Thomas and Abigail, who settled in Norwich, and Stephen, who removed to Lebanon (1715-45, and to Andover, in Hebron, Conn., 1752-54, and died there).

THE BRIDE OF "BRIDE BROOK"

Mary Rudd, who married Thomas Bingham (1), was the first child of Jonathan and Mary (Metcalf?) Rudd, whose marriage was a bit romantic and a matter of great local interest at the time. A "History of Norwich" gives the story as follows:

Jonathan Rudd and Mary —?—, both of Saybrook, would marry, but there was neither minister nor magistrate there. The distance to Hartford and the snows of winter turned the bridegroom's thought and journey to Pequot Harbour (now New London). There Jonathan Winthrop, afterward Governor of

"THE BRIDE BOOK WEDDING" of JONATHAN RUDD and MARY METCALF

The artist of this conception is believed to be Alice Parker Champion. The picture was used to illustrate a story by May Kelsey Champion, entitled "Clad in Doublet and Hose" in the Ladies Home Journal No. 11, Vol. IX (1892.)

A bronze tablet, dedicated in 1925 at East Lyme, Connecticut, now marks the scene of the wedding.

Connecticut, held authority from the Colony of Massachusetts to marry; but the home of the betrothed was beyond his jurisdiction. Midway between her home and that of the "squire," a little rivulet "rippled down the boundary line" between the two colonies. So here, by arrangement, a cavalcade from New London, marshaled by the worthy magistrate, met the bridal party from Saybrook. Then, with the magistrate on the east side and the bridal couple on the west side of the rivulet, the ceremony was performed. Hence the little ice-bound, snow-covered stream has ever since been known as "Bride Brook."

This stream issues from Bride Lake or Pond, and runs into the Sound about one mile west of Giant's Cove and two miles west of Niantic, Conn.

BRIDE BROOK

By G. P. LATHROP

(In the "Atlantic" for April, 1876)

1. Wide as thy sky Time spreads his hand,
And blindly over us there blows
A swarm of years that fill the land,
Then fade, & are as fallen snows.
2. Behold! the flakes fall thick & fast;
Or are they years that come between,
When, peering back into the past,
I search the legendary scene?
3. Nay; marshaled down the open coast,
Fearless of that low rampart's frown,
The winter's white-winged, footless host Beleaguers ancient Saybrook town.
4. And when the settlers wake, they stare
On woods half-buried, white & green,
A smothered world, an empty air,
Never had such drifts been seen!
5. But "Snow lies light upon my heart!
And thou," said merry Jonathan Rudd,
"Wilt wed me, winter shall depart,
And love like spring for us shall bud."

6. "Nay, how," said Mary, "may that be?
Nor minister, nor magistrate
Is here to join us solemnly;
And snow-banks bar us every gate."
7. "Winthrop at Pequot Harbor lies,"
He laughed. And with the morrow's sun
He faced the deputy's dark eyes;
"How soon, sir, may the rite be done?"
8. "At Saybrook? There the power's not mine,"
Said he, "But at the brook we'll meet,
That ripples down the boundary line;
There you may wed, & Heaven shall see't."
9. Forth went, next day, the bridal train Through vistas dreamy with gray light.
The waiting woods, the open plain,
Arrayed in consecrated white,
10. Received & ushered them along.
The very beasts before them fled,
Charmed by the spell of inward song
These lovers' hearts around them spread.
11. Four men with netted foot-gear shod
Bore the maid's carrying-chair aloft;
She swayed above, as roses nod
On the lithe stem their bloom-weight soft.
12. At last beside the brook they stood,
With Winthrop & his followers;
The maid in flake-embroidered hood,
The magistrate well cloaked in furs,
13. That, parting, showed a glimpse beneath
Of ample, throat-enriching ruff
As white as some wind-gathered wreath
Of snow quilled into plait & puff.

Old Chest in the possession of Miss Josephine Waldo Bingham (412,990). It is suggested that this chest in the Jacobean style of the period may have been a bridal gift to Johnathan Rudd and Mary Metcalf of Bride Brook fame, their daughter Mary Rudd becoming the wife of Thomas Bingham (1).

14. A few grave words, a question asked,
 Eyelids that with the answer fell
 Like falling petals,—form that tasked Brief time—yet all was wrought & well!
15. Then, "Brooklet," Winthrop smiled & said,
 "Frost's fingers on thy lip makes dumb
 The voice wherewith thou shouldst have sped
 These lovers on their way; but come,
16. "Henceforth forever be thou known
 By name of her here made a bride;
 So shall thy slender music's moan
 Sweeter into the ocean glide."
17. Then laughed they all, & sudden beams
 Of sunshine quivered through the sky.
 Below the ice the unheard stream's
 Clear heart thrilled on in ecstasy.
18. And lo, a visionary blush
 Stole warmly o'er the voiceless wild,
 And in her wrapt & wintry hush
 The lonely face of Nature smiled.
19. Ah, Time, what wilt thou? Vanished quite
 Is all that tender vision now;
 And, like snow-flakes in the night,
 Mute lie the lovers as their vow.
20. And O thou little, careless brook,
 Hast thou thy tender trust forgot?
 Her modest memory forsook,
 Whose name, known once, thou utterest not?
21. Spring wakes the rills' blithe minstrelsy;
 In willow bough or alder bush
 Birds sing, with golden filigree
 Of pebbles 'neath the flood's clear gush;
22. But none can tell us of that name
 More than the "Mary." Men still say "Bride Brook" in honor of her fame;
 But all the rest has passed away.

THOMAS BINGHAM'S HOME IN WINDHAM BEGINNING WITH 1693

In a word, it was where Mr. Charles Larrabee, Jr., now (1917) lives, at the south end of Windham "Street."

It was a weary task to prove this, but, at the same time, a mental pleasure. For the old deeds fitted themselves in beautifully, as they were dug out, one by one, from the dust heap of over 200 years.

The home lot was "layed out" (surveyed) in March, 1693, and father Thomas probably began his life there at that time, on account of the "spring plowing." Records show that he was there in April and May.

February-March must have been a dreary time of year to move one's home in those days—cold, damp, slushy—and with wife and babies and household goods to transport from Norwich, 16 miles into an almost perfect wilderness. I say babies, for his youngest child, Stephen (12), my own lineal ancestor, was only 3 years old.

Then, too, he was leaving what had been "home" at Norwich for thirty-three years. It is true his mother was long since dead (1670), but there, too, in the wilderness, although in his more vigorous youth, he had built a home, had married, and there his children were all born. While yet only 50, still he was 50 years old, and he was leaving all his acquaintances and friends and his church; leaving a settlement all well under way and prospering—to go into an utter wilderness again. No roads, only Indian trails; no house—it had to be built; no fences; no barns; perhaps some clear land, but none in fine condition for farming, as at Norwich.

Could there have been some domestic or social unpleasantness at Norwich?

It is true an Englishman loves land, and father Thomas was getting 1000 acres for a song—but he had to go and live on them! Why not one of the sons? Particularly as he turned over all his Norwich possessions to his eldest son, Thomas (2).

(See Norwich Land Records, Original Book of Grants, pp. 138, 139, 140, 141, 337.)

I like to think, however, that the final move was not made until summer and warm weather ; and that father Thomas, with his sons Abel and Jonathan, went to Windham in advance—in March, say—and built a cabin and fenced in a yard or “corral” for the stock, and cut a pile of firewood. The spring for water was only about 300 feet away.

Of course, the first built was a log house with a big fireplace and a chimney, perhaps of sticks and clay. There was no sawmill as yet, but the cornmill was probably in operation, two miles away, at the mouth of Bingham Brook.

Father Thomas and his sons must have chopped down the trees and hewed the logs—and, of course, there was plenty of help from the neighbors for the “raising.”

So that I think mother Mary and her daughters and the small children came over perhaps on a warm June day and reached the new “home” an hour or two before sunset. Daughter Mary, who had married John Backus and now lived in Windham, was no doubt on hand, with her husband, to help in “getting settled.”

It had been a hard day. At daybreak, in Norwich, the ox-teams and wagons would have been at the door—mainly loaded, perhaps, the night before, leaving only the last things for the morning.

Oxen with loads travel about two miles an hour, and it would take practically all day, eight or nine hours, to make the sixteen miles, for we must allow an hour or so for midday rest and feeding of the cattle.

Let us see who went along.

First, father Thomas and mother Mary (Rudd).

Then, probably, son Abel (3), 24 years old, for he was not yet married, although he soon found a wife in Windham and was married in another year.

Daughter Mary (4), 21 years old, had married the year before John Backus, of Windham, and no doubt was already in the new settlement. It will be remembered that father Thomas' mother (Ann) had married William Backus, Sr.

Probably son Jonathan (5), 19 years old, was of the party; also daughter Ann (6), 16 years old; Abigail (7), 14 years old; son Nathanael (8), 12 years old; daughter Deborah (9), 10 years old; son Samuel (10), 8 years old; and the babies, Joseph (11) and Stephen (12). Eleven persons in all.

The home faced south, down a valley through which flowed a little brook.

About 100 yards in front of the house, the ground slopes abruptly 30 or 40 feet, straight down; and right at the foot of this declivity pours out a plentiful spring of water (whence the brook). Of course, there must have been a sloping path down to the spring, but I have often wondered whether little Samuel, Joseph and Stephen, and even 10-year-old Deborah, did not often frighten mother Mary by playing too near the edge of that 40-foot drop!

That spring is there yet (1917), just as it was over 200 years ago—and just as plentiful. In fact, the little basin at the foot of the declivity is full of springs. This was a public spring, and in later years son Jonathan—and he was a deacon, too—got into trouble by trying to fence it in—and nearly went to jail for it!

It falls in here to add that Mr. Charles Larrabee, whose ancestors were neighbors of father Thomas at that very time and locality, and who now owns the old homestead, tells me there was a well dug later in front of the house and close to it; and he pointed out about the spot, as handed down to him. This well is mentioned in the will of Joseph (11), probated in 1765.

Jumping some years ahead for a moment, of course father Thomas later built a proper dwelling house, with deep stone cellar, etc., and it is this second house of father Thomas that is, almost certainly, the Charles Larrabee house of today (1917).

Mr. Larrabee is a contractor and builder and knows about such things, and he assured me the cellar, chimney and main beams of the house could well be 200 years old.

He kindly showed me over it. The cellar is at least 7 feet deep and walled with heavy old New England flat stone masonry. It is dry as a bone, because the drainage is perfect with that spring valley to drain it off—so near and so deep.

At the south-east corner of the cellar is a pit about 8 feet by 6 feet by 6 feet deep—a little sub-cellar. In the chimney foundation is a large closet, with wooden door.

It was not a large house, as shown by the size of cellar and attic, where the old roof timbers are visible. Of course, Mr. Larrabee has added to it and put in heat, plumbing and electric light; but the old part is clearly defined. There was at one time some wainscoting—a piece of which Mr. Larrabee has preserved—marked with the letters, “N. Wales.”

And so father Bingham began his new life in Windham in 1693.

Son Abel, 24 years old, met Elizabeth Odell there in Windham, although she was “of Stratford” (near Bridgeport), and married her in 1694 and went away to Stratford, although he returned to Windham in 1707 and remained.

Son Jonathan was 19 years old when he came to Windham, and no doubt lived with his father and worked with and for him. But in 1697, being 23 years old, he married Ann Huntington, and it is almost certain that father Thomas helped him to build a house on a lot he had across the road (to South Windham) and about 200 yards to the south-east, in a fork of roads. At any rate, he gave Jonathan that land in 1701, and the deed says Jonathan was already living there. In a few years Jonathan was accumulating land all around his home lot. Jonathan had no children, and seems to have adopted a namesake, Jonathan (28), son of Abel (3), who came to him as a lad and lived with him for years. Abel (3), in his will, mentions this fact as a reason for not bequeathing him more.

This Jonathan (28) was generously treated by his uncle Jonathan (5), and given a good deal of land over by the Náchaug river and elsewhere, but he did not make him his heir nor leave him the homestead.

Because, in 1745, Jonathan (5) sold his "mansion" and over 150 acres around it to Jabez Bingham (18), another nephew, son of Thomas (2), of Norwich, who had died in 1710. Part of the terms of the sale were that Jabez was to care for and maintain Jonathan (5) and his wife during life, in the old home. This sale did not by any means cover all of Jonathan's (5) property, for by his will and by deeds of land it is clear that much land and considerable personal property went to his nephews and nieces and to the church.

In 1760, Jabez sold the old Jonathan (5) homestead to Joshua Elderkin; and he sold in 1761 to Eliphalet Dyer. By this time, Col. Jedediah Elderkin had much land in that close vicinity, and I believe the Dyers and Elderkins were inter-married.

Some one may find the proof that the old Jonathan (5) house came into possession of Col. Jedediah Elderkin after 1761. The story is that Col. Jedediah built for his son, out of imported bricks (perhaps from Holland), a "mansion" on the site of the old Jonathan Bingham (5) house. At any rate, the brick house was there for many years, and I saw it about 1900—and it only fell to ruin about 1913.

After Jabez Bingham (18) sold out in Windham in 1760, he went to Salisbury, Conn.

Father Thomas' (1) next child, Ann (6), who was 16 years old on arrival in Windham, at the age of 22 married Hezekiah Mason in 1699 and later removed to Lebanon, Conn.

Daughter Abigail (7), who was 14 years old on arrival in Windham, was 26 years old when she married Daniel Huntington in 1705, of Norwich.

Daughter Deborah (9), who was 10 years old when she came to Windham, was 24 years old when she married Stephen Tracy in 1707.

The other children, Nathanael, Samuel, Joseph and Stephen, had meanwhile been growing up, and no doubt more and more doing the work of the farm.

Abel (3) had returned from Stratford (Bridgeport), and father Thomas had given him a farm, 1703-07.

In 1711, when father Thomas was 68 or 69 years old, he gave farms to Nathanael, Samuel, Joseph and Stephen. Stephen (12) wandered off to Lebanon and later to Hebron (Andover).

It would appear that father Thomas (1) had rather leaned, at first, on son Samuel (10), for he gave him part of his home lot. But both Nathanael and Samuel wandered off to Scotland, 3rd Society, and became "Separatists." Joseph bought out that part of the home lot from Samuel, and was evidently the one who did not care to wander.

So, in 1718, when father Thomas was 76 years old, he practically turned over all his farm to Joseph (11), who was then 30 years old, and arranged to be taken care of and supported by him.

Joseph was dutiful and affectionate and his father gave him still more property as time passed.

And so father Thomas and mother Mary lived on, until the end. She died in 1726 and he in 1730—and both are buried in the cemetery about a quarter-mile west of their home.

I think father Thomas was probably able generally to walk on Sundays to "preaching"—a short mile away and on a level. But I doubt if mother Mary could go often, towards the end. They may have and probably did have horses, but certainly no easy vehicle, nor one easily entered.

There are many huge stumps of trees in that locality now—5 and 6 feet in diameter—of several kinds of oak; and I am told most of them must have been growing 200 years ago. If so, the great change in appearance now, around the old homestead, must be in the lack of trees, for it is an almost bare plain.

SOME CONTEMPORANEOUS FACTS

The father of Thomas (1), our first American ancestor, was almost certainly, also, named Thomas (0), and the record of

Before leaving Thomas Bingham (1) it will be of interest to note some of the historical events.

The seventy years which he spent as pioneer and colonist, in Connecticut, saw great trials among the settlers who were flocking to the new world. Connecticut was more fortunate than her sisters, in securing a broad and liberal charter. The growth and development of Connecticut were not hampered by the continual bad management of dishonest or incompetent English governors, which was the misfortune, except at rare intervals, of the other colonies.

In 1687 an English governor (Andros) tried to abolish the old charter. But the attempt failed, the document being secreted in the famous Charter Oak at Hartford for about two years, as is supposed. It now hangs, beautifully mounted by the State Librarian, Mr. Godard, in the State Library at the Capitol in Hartford.

Without much stretch of imagination, we can see old Mr. Thomas Bingham (1) discussing the events and news and excitements of the day, with his large family of all ages, around the big old fireplace. Mother "Mary" and her daughters are plying their spinning wheels; and while perhaps not talking as much as the men-folks, are at any rate keeping up a lively and, in its way, quite as effective, thinking.

The people of Connecticut were sensible and business-like.

It is true that they had (so-called but much exaggerated) Blue Laws; but they steered clear of the witchcraft craze that afflicted Massachusetts from 1688 to 1692. There were Indian troubles in the very early days; but the worst were over by 1637, leaving the Connecticut Indians all but exterminated. It was 126 years after that, or in 1763-4, that Pontiac waged his war in Western New York, Michigan and elsewhere.

One of Thomas Bingham's (1) daughters married a descendant of Major General Mason, who conquered the Pequot Indians in Connecticut in 1637.

By 1700 the population of Connecticut was 200,000.

The French war commenced 25 years after the death of Thomas Bingham (1), namely in 1755-60; he having died in 1729-30. This war between French troops and Indians on one side and British regulars, colonial militia and more Indians on the other side, resulted in driving the French from America east of the Mississippi; and was ended by the Treaty of Paris, 1763. Several grandsons of Thomas Bingham (1) served in this war; and three or four were officers.

Following this war, there was a large emigration from Connecticut northward and northwestward into New Hampshire and Vermont, into the very country which the farmer militia had found to be good, on their various expeditions against the French. With this tide went a number of Bingham's, grandsons and great-grandsons of Thomas Bingham (1), whose family now began to leave its habitat around Norwich and Windham and scatter to the westward.

As the years slipped away, from 1767 to 1783, the spirit of revolution grew, from causes similar to those which caused Cromwell's war and the resulting emigrations to America. This spirit was fostered by the persistent and stupidly obstinate encroachments of the beer-and-tobacco House of Hanover and the bullying arrogance of the English who had stayed at home. Do read Edmund Burke's great speech in Parliament, defending the colonies and warning the English nation of what the result would be.

Then came the Revolution—a victory of defeats—won only by the tenacity of a few—beggarly rebels then, sturdy heroes now.

A fair proportion of the Bingham's fought for that much abused dame "Liberty." They were represented at Bunker Hill and Bennington; in the battles around New York and at Valley Forge. Some of them were called by their military titles and some were on the Pension roll.

Thomas Bingham (1) died intestate. Following are officially certified copies of records of the Probate Court in his case.

The above is, of course, an inventory of merely personal belongings and, even so, seems very meager for a man who was, really, so well-to-do. But compare it with the inventory of Wm. Backus, his stepfather. I suppose it is impossible for the present day to realize the simplicity and meagreness of the lives of those old pioneers. Acquaintance with pioneers and miners in our far West would assist comprehension.

As a matter of fact, Thomas Bingham (1) and his widowed mother must have been in very comfortable circumstances upon their arrival in Saybrook.

In the first place, Widow Bingham was of suitable age to marry Wm. Backus, Sr., still I have always thought that Mr. Backus' affections were influenced by the widow's material prosperity.

Again, Thomas (1), though only 18 years old and a minor, had—or his mother had—sufficient means to buy in as a Proprietor in the new colony at Norwich. Norwich Land Records, Original Book of Grants, pp. 138, 139, 140, 141, 337 show what the eldest son Thomas (2) had lands, which came to his eldest son Thomas (13); and no doubt these lands were what Thomas (1) gave to his eldest son Thomas (2) when he turned over everything to him and went to Windham about 1693.

At Windham the proof is ample that Thomas (1) had large land holdings as is shown by the accompanying list—1000 acres and more—of his various dealings and the list is not a completed one. This list is accompanied by copies of the deeds as recorded.

It was rather a custom of those days for the pioneer to acquire large holdings and as his sons grew up give them each a farm. Then, when old age no longer permitted active work, to deed his homestead to a favorite son, expressly reserving house room and support for himself and the old mother, from that son, so long as the parents lived.

The eldest son, Thomas (2), received, apparently, all the property which his father had had in Norwich, together with all the rights which went with an original Proprietorship in the Norwich colony.

The list will show what was given to the other six sons. When Thomas (1) gave up all that was left of his homestead to Joseph (11) he secured his own living by a bond for £ 400.00.00 and a deed to certain land, given by Joseph (11). (See the copy herewith later.) Even after this, the records show that Thomas (1) still had funds left, apparently invested in various ways.

But practically the old gentleman had distributed all of his considerable estate as he wished it to go. So there was no need of a will and he died without it—his wife having died four years before; and as Joseph (11) was evidently a devoted son, Thomas (1) needed but little for his personal use and so his inventory was meager.

Perhaps the system of distributing the property before death was to prevent a will being “broken” and to insure division as the owner wished it. Yet it was also an affectionate and generous method of treatment of a growing family.

It is of interest also to note that, by the list of land dealings, Thomas (1) had ready money beside what land he had left.

AUTHORITY: Wm. T. Bingham (4,992,880).

Settlement of Estate of Thomas Bingham (2). (d. Apl. 1, 1710.)

Probate Records at New London, Conn.

The inventory of Thomas' estate (personal ?) was dated Apl. 1, 1710, immediately after his death.

At this date his youngest brother Stephen (12), who lived in Windham, was a minor, being 20 years old (b. Apl. 30, 1690).

1712, July 8. "This Court grants power of administration to Stephen Bingham (12), of Windham, on the goods, chattels & credits (personal property) of his brother Mr. Thomas Bingham (2), late of Norwich, deceased, the Relict (Widow Hannah) of said Thomas refusing to administer his Estate."

Stephen (12) was now of age.

1712, July 8. Administration bond on the estate was signed on this date, with Nathaniel Rudd (see (7)) & Benaiah Bushnell as sureties in the sum of £ 200.00.00.

By this date Widow Hannah (Backus) Bingham had married Lieut. Thomas Tracy and made oath to the correctness of the inventory as "Hannah Tracy."

The total value of the inventory (personal) was £ 217.06.02 and it is stated therein that the ages of the children of Thomas (2) on July 8, 1712, were—

(13) Thomas "20 years old next November" (b. 20 Nov. 1692)

(14) Jeremiah, 18 yrs. (b. 4 July, 1694)

(15) Hannah, 16 yrs. (b. 31 March, 1696-7)

(16) Mary, 14 yrs. (b. 20 Feb., 1697-8)

(17) Dorothy, 12 yrs. (b. 24 Jan., 1699-1700)

(18) Jabez, 11 yrs. (b. 20 Nov., 1701)

(19) Nathaniel, 8 yrs. (b. 30 June, 1704)

(20) Joseph, 3 yrs. (b. 4 June, 1709)

1713, July 14, Stephen Bingham (12) of Windham, administrator of the estate of Thomas Bingham (2), his brother, late of Norwich, presented his accounts & disbursements.

1713, Sept. 26, The Will of Thomas Bingham (2) filed on this date but not until this date!!

Where had that will been since Apl. 1, 1710—necessitating the appointment of an administrator (after a delay of 2 years for that) instead of an executor?

This will distributes the (real & personal) estate, valued at £1401.00.00, among his wife & children as named above.

Norwich Land Records—Original Book of Grants—pp. 138, 139, 140, 141, 337—give the property of Thomas (2) which later came to Thomas (13).

It is interesting to note that Thomas (13) and his brother Jabez (18), at the death of their grandfather Thomas (1), set up a claim that their father Thomas (2) had not received all of the proper portion due him from his father Thomas (1)—in Norwich. But under “Thomas (1)” will be found copy of the legal documents which shows that they were finally satisfied on this point.

Note also—Thomas (2) died young for those days—he was only forty-three. His widow, Hannah (Backus), refused to administer his estate and quickly married Tracy. No will could be found, though a list of his personal belongings was made immediately. There was a delay of two years in administering his affairs. It was over two years after Thomas (2) died (Apl. 1, 1710) before an administrator was finally appointed (July 8, 1712); and then the administrator was Thomas' (2) youngest brother Stephen (12), who had not been of age when Thomas (2) died. Why wait for Stephen to come of age?

Now Hannah Backus, wife of Thomas (2), married him when she was only about 16 years old. She had had nine children, the oldest of whom, Thomas (13), was 18 years old when his father died; and the youngest, Joseph (20), only one year old. Why did she refuse to administer on the estate?—and why did she, a widow with nine children, the oldest now 20 years of age, rush off and marry Lieut. Daniel Tracy in 1711 or 12?—and why did the Lieut. take on so large a ready-made family?—and why did none of Thomas' (2) elder brothers become administrator if an older man was needed—without waiting for Stephen (2) to come of age?

For Thomas (2) had been dead two years when his youngest brother Stephen (12) became old enough to be his administrator,—and old Mr. Thomas Bingham (1), the father, did not die for twenty years after,—not until 1730!

Also, after Tracy died in 1728, Hannah married again—Samuel Griswold this time.

Was there trouble in the family? Was Hannah the cause of it? Is that why Thomas (2) did so unusual a thing as to die at 43? Is that why Thomas (1), whose mother married Hannah's father, left Norwich at 50 years of age, turned over his proprietorship and much (if not all) property to his son Thomas (2); and, with a large family, some of them very small, went off to Windham to start life all over again?

What was the matter with the "apple pie"?

Will of Abel Bingham (3) (d. 25 March, 1745). Recorded, Windham Probate Records at Willimantic, Conn.—Vol. 3,
p. 241-4—Apl. 20, 1734.

1. To son John (23), land, part of my farm, where I now dwell, containing 16 acres, Beginning at ye N. E. corner of my sd. farm, so running by highway, until ye line extends 4 rods (66 ft.) to ye west of his dwelling house & so to extend ye same breadth southerly until it makes ye compleat quantity of 16 acres.

Only I except the barn standing thereon which I reserve with ye yard & appurtenances with it; to improve ye same, ye dung & other ?—————? of it as usual;
so long as ye said barn shall last without new building.

Ye above said legacy, except before excepted to sd.
John with what I have formerly given him shall be his portion in full.

2. To son Abel (25), 16 acres more, part of my farm, Beginning at ye S. E. corner, & so to be measured off for good form—bounded South, on land of Ebenezer West; East, on land of Daniel Jaben; West, on remainder of my said farm; North, by above mentioned land given to my son John, so wide every way as to make the just quantity of 16 acres.
3. To my son Jonathan (28). Whereas my son Jonathan Bingham hath, at all times, since his being capable of labor, lived with & labored for my brother Jonathan Bingham (5) of said town (Windham) & he hath advanced him by bestowing a portion of his estate upon my said son—and is yet to do more for him—I therefore give to Him my said son Jonathan (28) but five shillings money, as his part & portion.

4. To my son David (29) twenty pounds, in or as money, to be taken out of my estate, as his portion; I having already given him a trade of tanner & shoemaker.
5. To daughter Abigail (21), wife of Francis Griswold, I having formerly given her ten pounds & six shillings, I now give her nineteen pounds & fourteen shillings, in or as money.
6. To daughter Mary (22), wife of John Abbe, I having formerly given her in her lifetime & before her decease, (July —, 1722) her portion in full.
7. To daughter Elizabeth (24), wife of Samuel Coggeswell—I having formerly given her twenty-five pounds & six shillings, I now give her four pounds & fourteen shillings, in or as money, &c.
8. To daughter Ann (26), wife of Thomas Baldwin, I having formerly given her twenty-seven pounds & eighteen shillings, I now give her two pounds & two shillings, &c.
9. To daughter Jemima (27), wife of Ebenezer Gennings—I having formerly given her two pounds & ten shillings, I now give her twenty-seven pounds & ten shillings, &c.
10. To son Abel (25) all the rest of my farm where I now dwell, that is not before given, with my house & barn & all other appurtenances thereof.

On condition that he pays the above mentioned legacies & “also well & truly maintain my wife Elizabeth (Odell) during her natural life (she d. before him) in case what I shall hereafter give her, in these presents, to be mentioned, be found not sufficient to support her, with all necessaries during her life as aforesaid.”

11. To Elizabeth (Odell) his wife, all my (movables or) moneys, goods & chattels, after debts are paid. Also one-half of the rest of my farm, with half of my dwelling house & one-half of the barn.

His wife Elizabeth & son Abel to be Executors—& if son Abel fails to pay the legacies within one year, the Probate Court is to take them out of his legacy.

b. — July, 1672, at Norwich, Conn.

d. 19 Feb., 1747, at Windham, Conn.

m. 17 Feb., 1692, John Backus. He was one of the early settlers of Windham, having removed thither from Norwich in 1692, the year of his marriage. As Thomas Bingham (1) went to Windham from Norwich in 1692-3, his daughter Mary (Bingham) Backus lived all her life in the same village with her father.

John Backus' father was Lieut. William Backus, b. _____; d. about 1721.

m. Elizabeth Pratt, dau. of Lieut. William and Elizabeth (Clark) Pratt, of Saybrook. She was b. 1641 and d. 1730.

John Backus' grandfather was William Backus, Senior, originally of Saybrook and one of the original settlers of Norwich in 1660. While in Saybrook he married for second wife Widow Ann (Stenton) Bingham, mother of Thomas Bingham (1). Lieut. Wm. Backus may have been child of this second marriage. But one authority says he was a child of the first wife.

5 JONATHAN BINGHAM, 4th child of Thomas (1).

b. Apl. 15, 1674, at Norwich, Conn.

Lived at Norwich until 19 years old (1693) and after that at Windham, Conn.

d. —————, 1751, before March 4, (when will was probated).

Larned says:—"He was a man of superior character & standing; though once threatened with prosecution by the Town—in 1707—for fencing in a spring for his private use & convenience."

The records show that he was a prominent and wealthy man, in his day; and was influential in Town and Church affairs.

1693 Being 19 years old, came to Windham to live, with his father and the rest of the family, all then removing from Norwich.

1697 Oct. 28—Married Ann Huntington, being 23 years old. It may be said with certainty, from the records, that his father Thomas (1), at this time, gave him a house, southeast across the street from his own.

1701 Aug. 13—Thomas (1) deeded Jonathan (5) the land on which his house stood and other land.

Jonathan was now 27 years old and had been married four years. It is practically certain that the site of this house was the same as that of the so-called "Elderkin" house, said to have been the first built of imported brick (from Holland) in that part of the colonies. It stood directly opposite the south end of Windham "Street" and was standing as late as 1910, since which time it has fallen to ruin from neglect, although the cellar walls were there in 1917.

Thomas also deeded to his son Jonathan at this time a spring lot, west of Jonathan's house lot and "near the head of the spring" which made trouble for Jonathan later. This spring lot and spring are directly south of Charles Larrabee's house (Jan. 1, 1917) across and south of the road and down under the hill.

The deed of 1701 mentions a white oak tree at the Northwest corner of this spring lot. Now about 1910-12 such an oak stump was found, close to the proper locality, a huge one.

At the same time as the stump, remains of tan-vats were found which must have been built by the Badgers & Frinks, who were tanners and who married granddaughters of Thomas (1) and who owned these localities later, say 1775-6, as records show.

About along the old southern line of that "spring-lot" a dam has been built and a pond now (1917) occupies very closely the location of the "one-acre spring lot"—which is just as copious and fine a spring as ever, furnishing abundance of water and several ponds in its course.

1701 The old oak stump was rolled over into the pond & is still there (1917) where the fresh water should preserve it as long as it is immersed.

The old deeds show that Jonathan (5) soon became active in acquiring land and before long he owned everything between his house and the river westward, on the south side of the road; and his pastures were on the east side of his house and of the road to what is now Scotland R. R. station, then called the road to "Memiaquogue hill."

- 1709 March 14—Received as an inhabitant of Windham (see Town Meeting Records, old p. 5).
- 1714 Aug. 2—Court appoints Jonathan Bingham of Windham, to be guardian of Esther Smith, about 12 years of age, daughter of Elisha Smith. Recognizance £70.00.00.
- 1715 The northeastern part of Windham was petitioning for separation and Jonathan Bingham was appointed to view a spot for a separate burying ground. Jonathan seems to have been somewhat of an expert in burying places. For, among the deeds which follow, will be found two, wherein he deeds a burying place. The date of the first deed is not found—and while there is difficulty in making either or both fit the present cemetery (1917) there is no doubt that the deed of 1719 is meant for the
- 1719 old part of the present cemetery. Weaver says the deed of 1719 was the first grant for it and that it was subsequently enlarged and the highway changed, which was certainly once on the north side and is now (1917) on the south side.

Thomas Bingham (1) is buried here.

A number of bodies from the old, first, cemetery were removed to the new. No trace seems now to be left of the first and oldest cemetery; but possibly and even probably it was on the west road out from Windham Green—see map of Old Windham by T. A. B.

- 1745 Jan. 10—Jonathan sold his homestead and a large piece of land to his nephew Jabez Bingham (18), son of Thomas (2) of Norwich, dead since 1710. Jabez sold this property to Joshua Elderkin, Dec. 24, 1760, and removed to Salisbury, Conn. Elderkin sold the house and part of the land to Eliphalet Dyer, March 2, 1761.

1751 The inventory of Jonathan's estate in 1751 amounted to £ 6,034.01.02. In his will, dated Feb. 10, 1745-6, he makes numerous bequests for religious and benevolent purposes, among them £ 60.00.00 to the poorest persons in the First Society, to pay their assessments for building a new Meeting House. Also, to the First Society £ 20.00.00 for a bell for the new meeting house;—to the First Society £ 10.00.00;—besides private legacies of from £ 50.00.00 to £ 100.00.00.

He married Ann Huntington, Oct. 28, 1697, daughter of the first Christopher Huntington of Norwich, Conn., and his wife Ruth (Rockwell). She was born Oct. 25, 1675, and died Aug. 20, 1756, thus surviving her husband.

She appears to have been a pious and benevolent woman, a worthy companion of her husband. In her will, dated Jan. 21, 1755, she gives "fifty Spanish milled dollars or an equivalent thereto, in passable bills of credit, to be committed into the hands of the Revd. Mr. Eleazer Wheelock, of Lebanon, to be by him disposed of and improved for the education of the youth of the Indian nations of this land; or in propagating religion & learning among them;" besides numerous other legacies to relatives.

The above said bequest of Ann (Huntington) Bingham was first applied to Moor's Indian Charity School, then newly established by Mr. Wheelock. It is said to have formed, later, the nucleus of the funds establishing and endowing Dartmouth College.

CHILDREN

There were none.

They adopted Jonathan Bingham (28), a nephew, son of Abel (3); & gave him, after years of service, about 150 acres but not the homestead, which was sold as above stated.

See deeds following & under Jabez (18).

Will of Jonathan Bingham (5). He d. before March 4th, 1751, Windham, Conn., 10 Feb., 1745. Recorded, Book 4, pp. 99-103, 5 Sep., 1751.

1. To Ann (Huntington) "my dearly beloved wife," one quarter part of personal or movable estate to be distributed in convenient time after my decease.

Also ye rents of my homestead which shall be due to my estate from Jabez Bingham (18).

Also ye twelve cord of wood due annually from Thomas Brown & Hezekiah Follet.

I give to my wife & her heirs forever.

2. To (nephew) Jonathan Bingham (28), son of my brother Abel Bingham (3), deceased, all that my lot of land on which he now liveth, to be set off to him after my decease.

3. To the First Society in sd. Windham, for building a meeting house, sixty pounds (£ 60.00.00) old tenour bills.

Said sixty pounds shall be disposed to pay ye Rate of some of ye most pore persons in said Society, when it shall be wanted, for said house, at ye Discretion of Col. Jabez Huntington & Ebenezer Wales, both of sd. Windham.

But if one of them should die, then my will is that John Ripley of sd. Windham shall assist ye survivor in ye Distribution.

4. To ye First Society towards purchasing a meeting house bell, forty pounds, old tenor bills, to be paid when it shall be wanted for that use. The above said sixty pounds for sd. meeting house & ye forty pounds for sd. bell shall be paid out of ye money sd. Ebenezer Wales oweth to my estate.
5. To (nephew) John Tracy, son to my sister Deborah (9) Tracy, deceased, fifty pounds, old tenor bills.
6. To my friend Ebenezer Wales, fifty pounds, old tenor bills, to be indorsed, after my decease, on a bond of a larger sum, which I have against said Wales.

7. To my brother Samuel Bingham (10), all that is in any ways, by bonds or book, in, from him to me, except one two years old steer, in his, my brother Samuel's possession. Said steer shall
8. be given to Jonathan (84), son to sd. Samuel (10) Bingham—(a boy then ten years old).
9. To sister Mary (4), widow of John Backus, deceased, one hundred pounds in old tenor bills. In case of her being dead, then to be distributed equally to sd. Mary's children, then living; & not to any of the grandchildren of sd. Mary (4).
10. To the children of my sister Ann (6), deceased, late wife of Hezekiah Mason, deceased, one hundred pounds in old tenor bills, to be divided equally among them which shall be living, at ye distribution.
11. To the children of sister Abigail (7), deceased, late wife to Daniel Huntington, deceased, one hundred pounds in bills of credit of old tenor, to be equally divided among those then living.
12. To children of Deborah (9) my beloved sister, late wife of Stephen Tracy, one hundred pounds in bills of credit, old tenor, to be equally divided among those then living.
13. To beloved brothers Nathaniel (8); Samuel (10); Joseph (11); Stephen (12); & ye children of Thomas (2) deceased; & ye children of Abel (3) deceased;—all the rest of my estate, lands, goods, money & chattels, (except ten pounds I shall hereafter, in this will, give to the church)—to be equally divided among them, namely, into six equal parts:—
the children of brother Thomas (2) to have one sixth part equally divided among those then living;
the children of brother Abel (3) to have one sixth part equally divided among those then living;
& in case any or all of my brothers should die before distribution, then their children, then living, shall inherit equally in like manner.

14. To First Church in Windham, ten pounds in bills of credit, old tenor.
15. All estate, personal & real, by this will given to my sisters & sisters' children; & to my brothers & brothers' children; & to the church; to remain in possession of Ann, my wife, as long as she liveth; &, with the direction of my executors, hereafter named, be improved for her comfort, so far as she shall stand in need thereof.
No distribution to be made of same until after decease of Ann, my sd. wife, as long as she shall remain my widow.
16. Executors—brother Stephen (12)—wife Ann—friend Ebenezer Wales.

Witnesses—Joseph Carew, Jedediah Elderkin, Joseph Bingham.

Codicil

Windham, Dec. 20, 1750.

I, Jonathan Bingham, signer & sealer to the above written instrument &c having in said will given to the First church in Windham one hundred pounds, in old tenor, for the use & toward building a new meeting house & purchasing a bell in said Society;

& I, having now signed a subscription for that purpose, of same sum

Now, if sd. meeting house shall go on & I or my executors be obliged to pay sd. sum subscribed as aforesaid by virtue of sd. subscription, then that part of this my will touching ye hundred pounds, to be null & void.

Windham District SS.

Windham, March 4, 1750-1.

Major General Daniel Mason & his wife Margaret.

(Denison.) Weaver says this Hezekiah was a descendant of Major John Mason of Saybrook, Norwich &c. General Daniel Mason was the one who subdued the Pequot Indians.

They lived first at Windham and later at Lebanon, Conn.

The will of Jonathan Bingham (5) speaks of his sister Ann as widow of Hezekiah Mason, which proves that it was not Daniel as some writers claim.

In Oct. 1731, Nathaniel and his son Isaac (60) were among the petitioners for a separate religious society at Scotland.

In 1732, Nathaniel was one of the committee appointed by the people of Scotland to provide a minister and was then called "Sergeant."

He was one of the original members of the Scotland church or Third Society, organized Oct. 22, 1735; and was chosen one of its first deacons, Nov. 19, 1735.

In 1740 Deacon Nathaniel Bingham had leave to build a "pew, at the west end of the pulpit, next the stairs."

He was influential in town affairs and was evidently one of the substantial men of the Third Society.

His property was inventoried at £ 132.09.06.

10 Capt. SAMUEL BINGHAM, 9th child of Thomas (1).

b. March 28, 1685 or 7, at Windham, Conn.

d. March 1, 1760.

He lived in the Third Society (Scotland) and was one of the original members of the church there, having been dismissed from the First church (Windham) for that purpose.

On May 4, 1711, when he was 26 years old, his father Thomas (1) gave him a farm on the east side of Beaver brook, probably on the road then leading from Windham to Scotland.

Hinman says that Samuel of Windham received a deed of land from Thomas, no doubt his father (1), of Windham, in 1716. Also that Joseph of Windham deeded to his brother Samuel of Windham, in 1717.

Samuel was Lieut. of Train Band, May, 1727; Lieut., 2nd Co., Train Band, May, 1736; Capt., 2nd Co., Train Band, May, 1741.

He was assessor and for several years, constable.

He became a "Separatist" in religion and had "seen a New Light," and, on Apl. 16, 1753, signed a memorial against oppression by the "stated" or established ecclesiastical laws, which made the people pay taxes to support the regular or "standing" Congregational minister, whether they also supported a "Separatist" minister or not.

b. Jan. 15, 1688, at Norwich, Conn.

d. Sep. 4, 1765, and buried at Windham, where he had lived.

He took care of his father and mother in their old age, succeeding to the ownership of the homestead, which at his death went to his son Elijah (89), who sold it off and went to New Hampshire in 1773-4. The homestead was soon in the hands of strangers and has remained so ever since.

Aug. 20, 1740, Joseph Bingham was one of a committee of three to receive from the Colony of Connecticut, funds allotted to Windham as damages for taking away Rev. Mr. Clap to be President of Yale College.

He was a deacon and a quiet, pious man. The inscription on his tombstone is "Here lies the body of the dearly beloved & godly man, Joseph Bingham, who fell asleep in Jesus 4 Sept., 1765 in the 78th year of his age.

They lived at Norwich, where all his children were born, until shortly after the close of the French War, when they removed with their family to Charlemont, Mass., a mountainous town among the spurs of the Green Mts., some 30 miles south-east of Bennington, Vt.

About 1773 his youngest sons, Jeremiah and Calvin, went to Bennington and purchased a farm, partly cleared, on which the frame of a house had been erected and partly finished, and they, soon after, with their aged parents, removed thither.

Deacon Joseph, when a young man, was possessed of uncommon muscular strength and was exceedingly quick in his movements. He was full six feet two inches tall, not fleshy, had a keen, penetrating eye and an indomitable will. He was an officer in the "old French War" and commanded a company at Ticonderoga.

He was of eminent piety and great benevolence—a member of the church and deacon for many years. Social and affectionate in disposition, his conversation abounded in moral and religious instruction; and was eminently scriptural and spiritual. He was a man of prayer and had great trust in its efficacy.

He lived within two miles of the ground where the battle of Bennington was fought, on Saturday, Aug. 16, 1777, and was prevented from being there by a broken hip. His son, Jeremiah, was in the battle; but Calvin, that morning, removed his aged and infirm parents to the center of the town, where were collected most of the aged men with the women and children. During the day Deacon Joseph called the people to the church and prayed fervently.

d. —————, 1796, at Canterbury, Conn.

Lived at first at Windham, later at Plainfield. Removed to Canterbury, where he was in 1746. Returned to Windham and remained until after 1755, when he went back to Canterbury, where he was in 1758.

He was a schemer and unfortunate speculator. In 1754 he was interested in the purchase of 4,500,000 acres of land in Potter & McKean counties of Penna. from 16 Iroquois chiefs and others. The deed is on record in the office of the Secretary of State at Hartford, Conn.

The following remarks are by his grandson, Joseph (4321), known as "Citizen Joe."

"My grandfather, Gideon Bingham, who patiently lived a life of poverty, deprived as he was by the British & Indians (& worse than them, the Tories) of his lawfully purchased land in Penna. Tradition says he carried his bed on horseback from Conn. to Wyoming Valley. He cleared his land & raised his corn. The speckled trout & deer furnished him with meat & he contemplated moving his family into that vast wilderness. But Heaven designed it otherwise. On a morning in October, 178—, his cow came from the woods with her tongue cut out & bleeding—his horse was shot full of arrows; & he knew there were troublous times at hand.

It was a long way to the fort; &, like a man of good sense, he slung a knapsack of hoecake & dried meat & his rifle on his shoulders; & with a last lingering look upon his cribbed up corn & his poor beasts, laid his course for Manhattan, now New York. He reached his family alive in Canterbury, Conn., who received him as one from the dead; as the account of the horrid massacre of Wyoming had already reached that place. He renounced all thought of taking his wife & family to Wyoming (Pa.)."

Lived first in Windham. Had a farm of nearly 100 acres just across the Shetucket river from Windham, on north side of Obwebetuck Hill.

1766—Sold part of his farm on Shetucket river to Jedediah Elderkin.

1768—Sold another part of said farm to John Allen.

1773—Sold remainder of said farm to Jedediah Elderkin.

1774, Feb. 7.—Removed to Lempster, Sullivan Co., N. H., with wife and 6-7 children and was the 9th settler there. He was a house carpenter and joiner. Some say he lived at one time in Lebanon, Conn.; but I think this refers to his farm on the west side of Shetucket river, now practically South Windham.

1775, Sept. 5—Sold to Edmund Badger land on Windham Street which, it is believed, was the remainder of the old Bingham homestead property (Thomas (1)), which had been somewhat disposed of in pieces beforehand.

Tombstone Inscription in Lempster, N. H.

The memory of the just is blessed.

This monument is erected in memory of Deacon Elijah Bingham, who deceased 19 Mar. 1798 in the 79th year of his age.

In the cold mansions of the tomb
 How still the solitude, how deep the gloom;
 Here sleeps the dust unconscious, close, confined,
 But far, far distant, dwells the immortal mind.

Deacon Elijah Bingham, of Lempster, N. H., is the subject of the following tale, related by Daniel Havens Bingham (41860).

The deacon was 6 feet 4 inches tall, lean and lank sided, and in his prime a most powerfully muscular man; quick as lightning in his movements and, in an emergency ready to face any kind of danger. He was a carpenter by trade and followed his trade in connection with his farming.

When three or four of his boys were half grown, the eldest being perhaps 16 years old, on a certain Saturday, the deacon had a piece of carpentry work to finish away from home; and set out, giving his boys light tasks; and telling them they could do what they pleased as soon as these tasks were completed.

The boys went to work with a will and had finished long before noon. Then they took the old gun and the pole-axe (the only one on the place) and started to the woods for a hunt. After about a couple of miles they came across a nest of young cubs, seizing which they started home with their booty.

They had not proceeded far before they discovered that the mother bear was close upon them. They dropped cubs, gun and axe and rapidly climbed saplings out of Bruin's reach. But she was so highly incensed that she tried to gnaw down the saplings, which were too small for her to climb.

The deacon returned at dark but found no boys. The night wore on and still no return, until he finally felt sure something was wrong and spent a sleepless night.

At daylight next morning he started for the woods, in the direction the boys had taken; his broadaxe on his shoulders, the only weapon he had. He kept up a constant "hallooing" and in the course of a mile or so heard a response; and taking its direction soon reached the spot where his boys were held in durance vile, having passed a night of hardship, pain and hunger; and now barely able to cling to the branches; and trembling with exhaustion.

Bruin with her cubs was at the foot of the saplings; the stock of the gun had been gnawed off; the handle of the pole-axe chewed into splinters; and the bases of the trees nearly gnawed through in efforts to bring down the boys.

Bruin rose majestically on her hind legs to receive the deacon. But waiving all ceremony on this occasion, even "grace before meat," the deacon landed a well directed blow with his broadaxe just behind the ear, nearly severing the bear's head from her body. The boys were thus relieved from their sufferings and danger.

D. H. B. then quaintly adds :

In view of the puritanical notions of our early ancestors, it has been a subject of wonder with me, whether the deacon permitted the boys to carry the cubs home, that Sunday morning, or whether he let all remain until Monday, before gratifying the curiosity of the boys' anxious mother.

Weaver says: Of the above children, except Jerusha, we have but little information. They probably all left Windham at an early day. A descendant of Jerusha says that one of the sons was at the battle of Bunker Hill and was a cripple for 20 years. Another, he thinks, founded Binghamton, N. Y.; but such is not the case, for that Bingham came from Philadelphia. One of the daughters mar. a Gregory, who lived at Owego, N. Y., and died shortly before 1863, aged nearly 100.

Dear Brother

Upon your Confidence that you shall clear the Money for the Rum, Which You desired me to buy for You, by the Time that I must have the Money to pay for it—Which You surely can do if it Will ever do for You to keep Tavern—I have concluded to get it for You.

But I assure You I do it with a Trembling Heart, fearing I am out of God's Way & that it will prove the Beginning of Your Ruin & mine too.

I know I dont fail of that degree of Love to You & Yours Which is Due; nor have I the least Backwardness to anything in My Power for Your Good. But Your intire Ignorance of My Necessities & your crowding me So much into debt at this Juncture, Seems to devolve upon me a double Care, viz. of You & Myself too.

However Providence May decide the Matter by this Trial—And if You Will be prudent, humble minded, temperate & Steady, there will be no difficulty; & it may be a Lead to Your Prosperity. But if not, I assure You, Your Ruin is not far off.

Eleazer Wheelock.

d. —————, 1784.

Went with his father to Windham and lived there until about 1749 when he removed to Salisbury, Conn., where he lived "under the mountain"—his father probably going with him.

Was a corporal and served 14 days in Capt. Uriah Stevens' (of Canaan, Ct.) Co., of Col. Eben Marsh's regt., in the relief of Fort William Henry, Aug. 9-10, 1757.

Is said to have served in the Revolution.

Was probably living at South Hadley, Mass., on July 28, 1783, as shown by a deed of land in Tinmouth, Vt., to his son Alvan, dated at South Hadley.

m. Dec. 24, 1746, in Windham, Mary Wheelock, only child of Deacon Ralph and his second wife Nancy or Mercy Standish. Hence Mary was a gr. dau. of Miles Standish. She was b. Nov. 28, 1728 (see under No. 90) and died Jan. 29, 1809, near Athens, O. She was also sister to Sarah Wheelock, wife of (90).

Weaver says:

It has been generally supposed that this Jabez (141) was the father of Jerusha Bingham (515), who married Rev. Samuel Kirtland, missionary to the Oneida Indians; and who was the mother of President Kirtland of Harvard College. But such is not the fact. That Jerusha was (515), dau. of Joseph Bingham (90) and son of (11).

b. May 16, 1725 (Perkins).

Lived Chesterfield, N. H.

d. Apl. 26, 1802, at Chesterfield, N. H., of numb palsy.

Buried there in cemetery of Presby. church.

Removed (probably from Norwich, Ct.) to Chesterfield, Cheshire Co., N. H., in 1763. Purchased in 1767 of Joseph Willard at Chesterfield the ninth & tenth fifty-acre (house) lots in the tenth range." Is styled a cooper in this deed. His farm was 250 acres and lay half a mile north of the village on the main road toward Westmoreland and Dartmouth College. He built and managed Bingham's Tavern on or near Weatherbee Hill, which is a short distance north of the "center" of the village, near the "Big Pond."

When the Revolutionary war broke out he, with three sons, Elisha, Theodorus, and Gustavus, joined the army. He was in a company of Col. Ashley's regt. which went to Ticonderoga June 29, 1777. The three sons had settled on farms near their father. After their terms of enlistment had expired he, with Theodorus and Gustavus, returned home. His eldest son Elisha had died in camp of camp fever or dysentery.

He was a Selectman of Chesterfield in 1770, 1775 and 1777. In 1771 he was one of a committee to provide a minister. He and his son Theodorus were signers of what was known as the Association Test. He was also representative in the General Court for Chesterfield and Hinsdale 1779-80.

During the troubles after the Revolutionary war, between Vermont and New Hampshire, over boundary lines, he was one of those who wanted to go with Vermont and was confined in jail for a considerable time by his opponents. This was a celebrated case, only settled by the interposition of Washington himself.

There is a persistent tradition that he and his wife died at Norwich or Bennington, Vt. Weaver says he removed to Cornwall, Vt. This was apparently before 1787 and he was certainly accompanied by his son Jeremiah and probably by the rest of his family. He left Cornwall in 1818 with his son Jeremiah's (who died in 1813) family and after that all trace is lost. He was Quartermaster of a troop of horse, 5th regt., May, 1757, in the French and Indian war. He was Cornet in Oct. 1761, and Lieut. in Oct. 1764.

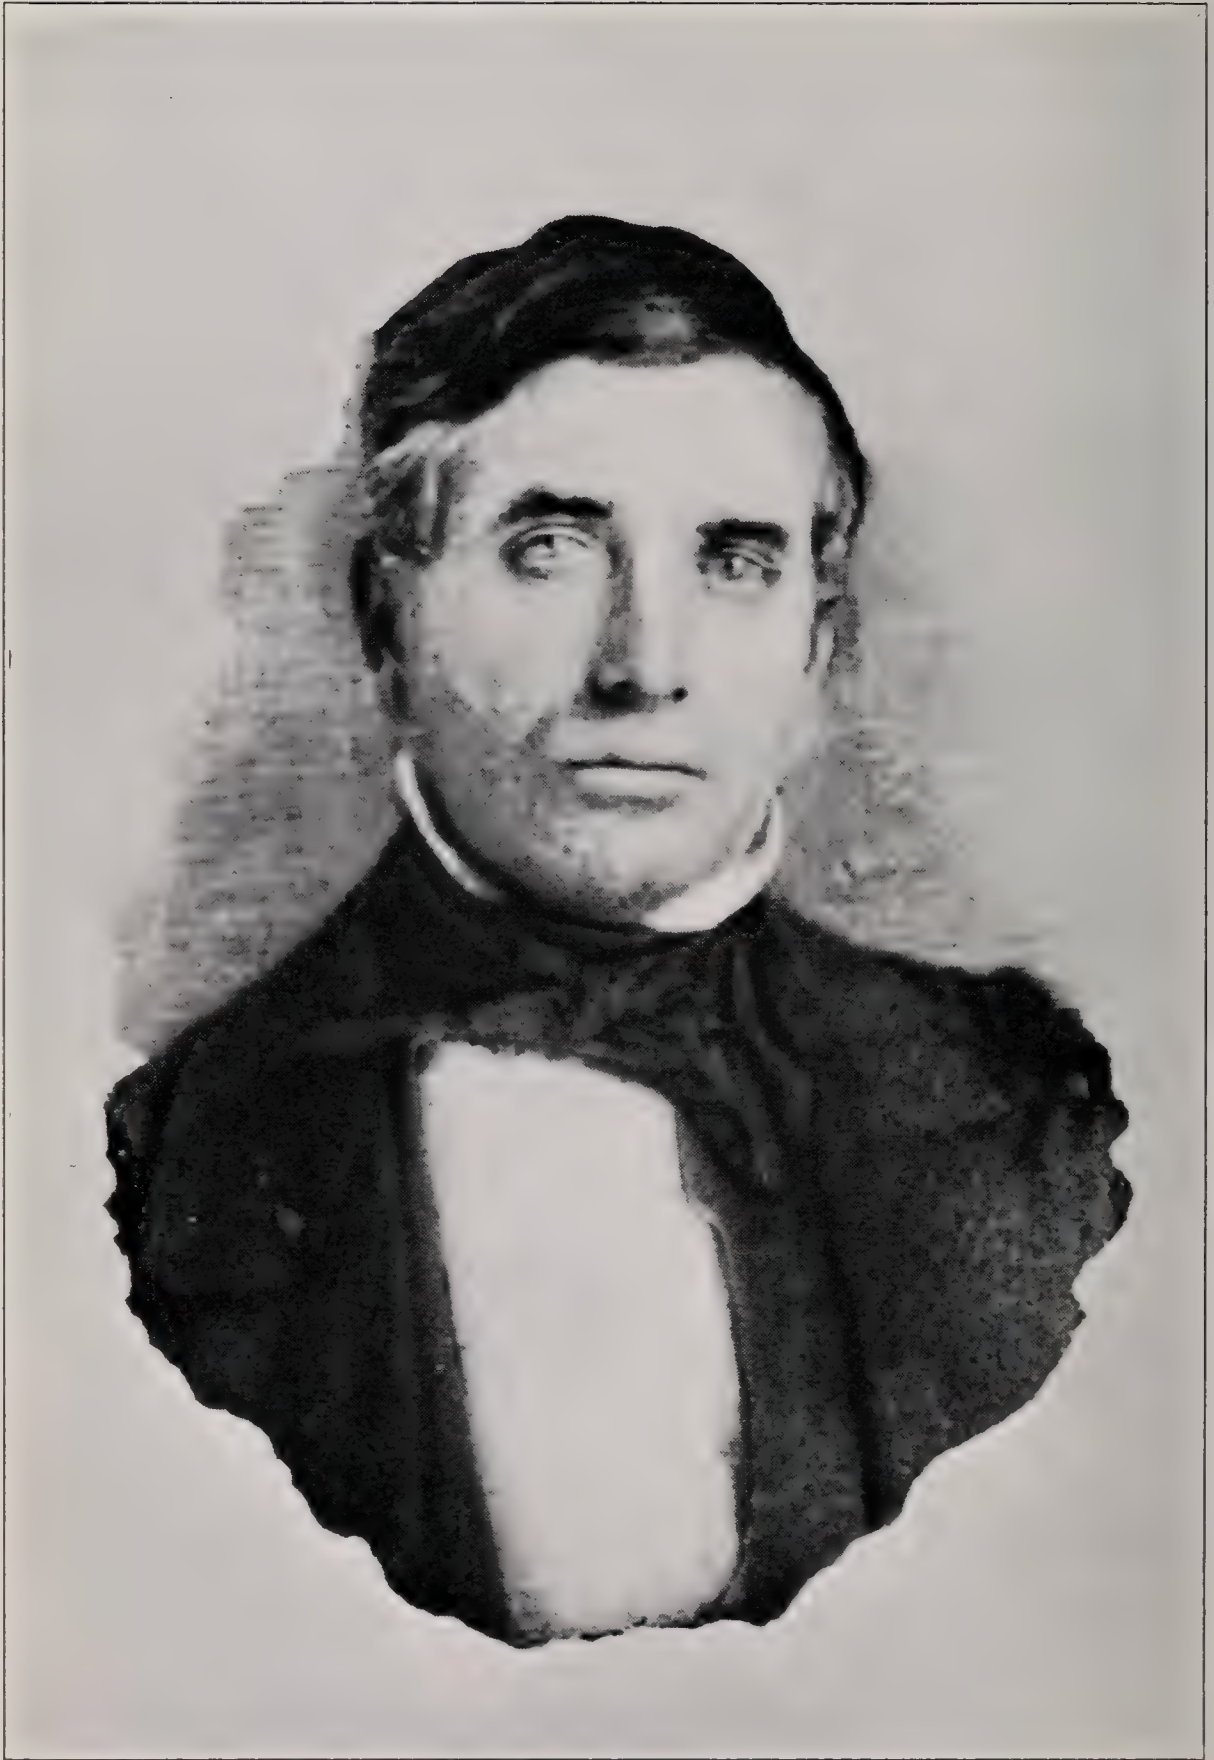

m. July 5, 1759, Rachel Ween of Norwich, Conn. It is said she died at Norwich.

Son of Ira Bingham (1281)

170 JEREMIAH BINGHAM, 9th child of (20) Joseph.

b. June 26, 1748, at Norwich, Conn.

d. Jan. 24, 1842, at Cornwall, Vt.

m. 1. Wid. Abigail Hawks, May 4, 1771 or 72. She d. May 17, 1817.

m. 2. Wid. Abigail Smith, of West Haven, Rutland Co., Vt. She d. ————, 1852.

He was a surveyor by profession. Settled first at Bennington, same Co., Vt., and in 1784 removed to Cornwall, Vt., where he was one of the first settlers. He was in the battle of Bennington, Aug. 16, 1777, under Gen. Stark.

He was a gr. grandson of John and Hester (Hyde) Post, of the second generation; and was one of the first Congregational deacons of Cornwall.

Rev. Joel T. Bingham, the popular preacher of Westfield, Hampden Co., Mass., was probably a grandson of this Jeremiah (170).

He was Moderator of the first Town Meeting of Cornwall and the records of the town show him to have been a prominent and trusted citizen. He was one of the original members of the Cong. church and its first moderator and registrar. He was also deacon.

He was in the Quartermaster's department at Ticonderoga previous to Burgoyne's surrender, as well as at the battle of Bennington.

He had an indomitable, iron will, great energy and perseverance, and inflexible moral courage, with a high sense of honor and religious principle. He spent much time writing out his thoughts, especially on religious subjects. He was also a poet of some pretensions. Few men did more surveying when the country was new.

He wrote in 1840 to (12347) that he had had 50 gr. children, two of whom had died in infancy.

“Of no distemper, of no blast, he died
 “But fell like autumn fruit that had mellowed long,
 “Even wondered at, because he dropped no sooner.
 “Fate seemed to have wound him up for fourscore years ;
 “Yet freshly ran he on some fourteen winters more,
 “Till, like an old clock, worn out with beating time,
 “The wheels of weary life, at last, stood still.”

Rev. Hiram Bingham, in a letter of May 23, 1860, says, "of the family of 13 children, 10 are still living, all members of orthodox churches, of whom there are 7 sons, the youngest 65 years of age; of these, 2 are clergymen, 2 physicians and 2 deacons."

Harris Bingham

A Double Acrostick

Harris, and Lucy Ann Bingham.

Have I in truth with all my heart,
Flatten'd to Christ, and do I still Attend to things which he impart,
And long to know and do his will?
Remembering I am bound to live
Religion, every day while here:
Repenting too - to God I'll give Repeated thanks, and humble prayer.
In deep repentance every day,
I must do all with holy fear;
Since time is flying fast away:
Shall I not to my Lord draw near?

By grace I do resolve to strive,
Better to live than I have done:
In all my ways to God I'll give
In eternal praise, through Christ his son.
Nor shall my light be hid from men -
No, they shall see, and be constrain'd
Glorious to give, to God's dear name,
Glorious in truth, and love unfeign'd.
Here Lord accept these words of mine -
Have pity, and attend my plea;
And let me be forever thine,
A living sacrifice to thee.
My self, and all to thee I give:
My everlasting God and King;

O may I to thy glory live,
And thy sweet praises ever sing.

Hast thou a soul to save or lose?
Look well to this - of it take care -
Awake from sloth, and false repose -
Unite with Christ, and in him chase.
Remember time will soon be gone -
Cannot thou see the moments fly?
Recount those duties left undone:
Yes, and awake before thou die.
Indeed much time has run to waste,
And cannot be recalled again:
Shall I not wake, and be in haste,
Nor cease to pray, till I obtain.

Before the Lord, O come and bow -
Now let thy light in darkness shine:
In heart believe, and tell us how
With God's dear people thou canst join.
No more let unbelief prevail -
Attend to duty - O attend:
Gird up thy loins, thy lusts assail -
Repent, and crooked ways amend.
Hast thou not given thy heart to him,
Now seated on a throne above,
And hast engag'd to war with sin,
Employing zeal, and truth, and love.
Mankind around are looking on:
Regardless how they ought to live -

O could they see themselves undone,
And their whole hearts to Jesus give.

Among poor sinners here we stand,
Whilst God is on the giving hand;
He now in mercy waits to hear
The humble and prevailing prayer.
We every one should make
This prayer we every one should make -
Determine that our hearts shall break:
Implore the Spirit to draw near,
And give each love as casts out fear.
The Spirit must convince and show
What the poor sinners ought to do,
And draw him by the cords of grace,
The loving Saviour to embrace.

Here is a wonder brought to view;
The rebel sinner lives anew:
He hears (though dead) the Saviour's voice,
And Jesus is the friend of choice.

The Spirit works to will and do,
We find the sinner working too:
The Spirit gives a willing mind -
The soul to duty is inclined.

The soul to Christ gives all away;
We give to live, and love to pray:
The light of life burns bright within,
And the new man does live to win.

390 ABNER BINGHAM, 2nd child of (74) Abisha, which see.

- b. ———. Bapt. ——— 1735, at Scotland (Windham), Conn.
- d. ——— 1774, at Walpole, Cheshire Co., N. H.,— a few miles from Marlow in same county.
- m. Sarah Clark. She d. ——— 1799.

Note.—Wm. Theo. Bingham (4992880), who is a keen investigator, quotes from Springfield, Windsor Co., Vt. records; and while giving the children and grandchildren of the above Abner (390) as are given in this book, makes them belong not to Abner (390) but to a John William Bingham, born Jan. 8, 1710, at Lynn, Mass., and married to Sarah Clark, June 8, 1740, of Taunton, Mass. I cannot work this out. See also under (33518).

The grant for the town of Marlow, Cheshire Co., N. H., was made Oct. 7, 1761—the settlers being nearly all from Lyme and Windham, Conn. The first settler in Marlow was Samuel Gustin in 1764. From various records it appears that Abner (390) with wife, Sarah (Clark) Bingham, and two, possibly three, children, went to Marlow in 1766-7.

1767, Sept. 12—Abner received title to his land.

1768, Aug. 10—Other titles to land.

1769, July 17—Title of land to Abner (390).

1770—Mention is made of "Abner Bingham of Marlow" in the story of a hunt for a lost child, in Alstead, N. H. (near Marlow), in an historical sermon by Rev. Seth S. Arnold in 1826.

1772, Jan. 7—Abner is in a list of "Heads of Families in Marlow," as shown by N. H. State papers, Vol. IX, p. 546.

Among other settlers at Marlow, at the same time, were Joseph and Abisha Tubbs, of Lyme, Conn. Now Abner's (390) mother was a Tubbs from Lyme. So these two men were probably kinsmen.

Abner Bingham is spoken of in the records as "cordwainer" (shoemaker) and "yeoman."

1774—Being only about 40 years old, Abner died in 1774 at Walpole, N. H., which is but a few miles from Marlow.

3402 Faith, b. ————— after 1760. Solomon Gee was her first guardian. On Aug. 10, 1784, she chose Benjamin Baxter instead and he receipted, at Marlow, for Faith's full estate of £.20.04.00.

Solomon Gee (thought to be a relative) was, at first, administrator on Abner Bingham's (390) estate. But on Oct. 31, 1780, "Sarah Bingham, of Marlow, widow woman," was made "administratrix and also succeeded Gee, on same date, as guardian of John (340) ;—giving bond in the latter case for about "£40.00.00."

Probate records of Cheshire County give 1799, June 25—John Bingham (3401) gave bonds as administrator on estate of "Sarah Bingham, late of Marlow," and signed by Benj. Bellows, of Walpole.

1799, June 28—Inventory of Sarah Bingham's estate.

1799, Dec. 10—Account of John Bingham as administrator of Sarah Bingham was rendered.

2. (prob.) Wid. ————— (House) Wilson, sister to his first wife.

Royalton probate record says he mar. Louisa
————— ?

He served in the French and Indian war, 1759-60. At the opening of the Revolution, Gov. Trumbull, of Conn., commissioned him a Lieut. in the Conn. Line and he served through the war. He was at the battle of Mud Island, now Fort Delaware; and was with Washington in his campaign through New Jersey. He was at the battles of the Brandywine, Princeton and Monmouth; and he spent the winter of 1780, which was remarkable for its severity, at Valley Forge, Pa.

His company was commanded by Paul Brigham, afterwards Lieut. Gov. of Vt. and his regt. was commanded by Col. Chandler.

He is said to have been a valuable officer and rendered special service in recruiting, owing to his urbane manner and social conviviality. He was a man of much energy and force of character. He was six feet tall, erect and dignified. His movements were elastic and graceful and he had a somewhat theatrical air.

Some of his sons were large importers of fine sheep for wool, in Michigan.

The following was composed by him, in his 78th year, and he requested that it be read or sung at his funeral. He called it "A Retrospect of Life and Farewell to My Family."

Air: "The Dying Girl"

My thoughts are now mounting, with wonder recounting,

All the joys and the sorrows that this world can give;

I'm so lost in wonder, I can't tell their number,

I leave you to muse on the theme while you live.

Through the whole course of life, I've been happy in part,
 Though afflictions and sorrows often caused a sad heart,
 Our joys and our sorrows, from all that appears,
 Will be equally balanced in the annals of years.

Seventy-eight is my measure of sorrow and pleasure,
 My glass is near run, it is plain to be seen;
 With grateful emotion and heartfelt devotion,
 I'll finish my life, which has passed like a dream.

By the fountain of love, that one power above,
 I was called into life by His will and good pleasure;
 By His mercy and truth, preserved from my youth,
 Now I'll rest in His love, as my very best treasure.

Farewell, my dear wife, my companion through life,
 The bonds of our union have strengthened with time: (57 yrs.)
 We've had a full measure of sorrow and pleasure,
 And now I have left you, to mourn and repine.

Farewell, my dear children, with blessings of mine,
 And Heaven's best gifts through all coming time;
 Then fill up Time's measure, in wisdom and pleasure,
 Until you are called to some happier clime.

Eliza, b. ———, m. as 1st wife, Prof. Edward Robinson, of N. Y.

Walter F. Bingham says:

Rev. Samuel Kirtland was partly educated at Dartmouth college, then known as Wheelock's School; but graduated at New Jersey college in 1765. In 1766 he was ordained; and spent nearly 40 years among the Seneca Indians.

In his "Annals of the American Pulpit," Dr. Sprague thus speaks of Jerusha Bingham: "She was a niece of Dr. Wheelock "and the daughter of a respectable farmer of Windham. She "had been educated in Dr. Wheelock's family and was a lady "of high intellectual, moral and Christian qualities and was “eminently qualified to share, with her husband, the labors and “sacrifices incident to a mission among the Indians. She proved “a most efficient auxiliary to him in his work.”

She left home and civilization immediately after her marriage and accompanied her husband to the wilderness, the abode of savage man. To be the wife of a missionary at that day required as much Christian Heroism and as many sacrifices as in later times to go in a similar capacity to Asia or Africa.

In his “Annals of Oneida County,” Owen Jones says that Mrs. Kirtland left her mission home and started, on horseback, in the summer of 1770 for the home of her mother in Windham, Conn. But she was unable to proceed further than Gen. Herkimer’s place at the foot of Fall Hill on the Mohawk. Here she remained several weeks and, on the 17th of August, 1770, gave birth to twin sons, who were named by their father after his esteemed friends, as above. As soon as her strength returned she went back to Oneida, to the great joy of the Indians, who named her sons

John Thornton—Ahganowiski—“Fair Tree”

George Whitfield—Lagoneost.

The impression has been general among biographers and connections of Rev. Samuel Kirtland, that his wife Jerusha was the daughter of Jabez Bingham, of Salisbury, and Mary Wheelock, only daughter and child of Deacon Wheelock by Mary Standish (141), instead of as given here (90) Joseph.

In an appendix to his discourse upon the life of John Thornton Kirtland, President of Harvard, Dr. Young makes this claim and gives a line of descent from Miles Standish. He adds that this statement may be relied on.

In his notice of Dr. Wheelock in Sprague’s “Annals,” Pres. Allen says: “his half sister Mary, whose mother was Mercy “Standish, of Preston, x x x married Jabez Bingham, of Salisbury, and was grandmother of the Rev. Kirtland, late Pres. “of Harvard.”

In the Kirtland Genealogy, published in the N. E. Historical Genealogical Register for July, 1850, the same statement is repeated ; and several communications from descendants and connections of the Kirtland and Standish families are to the same effect.

Rev. Dr. Samuel Kirtland Lathrop, of Boston, Mass., says his mother Jerusha, daughter of Rev. Samuel and Jerusha Kirtland (4652) believed that Jerusha (515) was daughter of Jabez (141).

Notwithstanding all these statements and speculations, the descent of Jerusha (515), or Mrs. Samuel Kirtland, is traceable to Joseph Bingham, of Windham (90) not to Jabez Bingham, of Salisbury (141).

Therefore I Should be very glad to have it Settled as Soon as may be.

I Shall be at Windham in about 4 or 5 Weeks.

These from your

Chester Bingham.

Dart. Coll., Feby. 1, 1773.

Capn. Wright,
My Dear Sir :

Yo Write me yt Chestr Bingm has ingagd an attorney to bring a Suit at Law agst my Estate (?) for a Legacy left him by an Aunt (?) &c.

I will End^r. to give y^o a Short & honest accot. of ye affair & leave it to wth y^o. () to conduct it as y^o. shall be advised.

Mrs. Ann Bing^m (see No. 5) Widow of Mr. Jonth (?) Bing^m, of Wind^m., was sister to my Grandfather Huntington. She frequently consulted me regarding her affairs, some of which were difficult. She was left in doubt particularly how to dispose of the remains of the estate her ———?——— left her. She mentioned several of her needy relatives as proper objects of her charity.

I mentioned Chester Bingham, my sister's (see under No. 90) son, whom I had compassion on, being lame in his feet. She seemed at first to think him not so much the object of her charity as some others. But, after talking with her several times about it, she cheerfully willed him a sum of money which was due to her from her cousin (?) J. A. Huntington, as his share.

I accordingly did something considerable in boarding and schooling Chester myself.

I charged him nothing for it as his father ———?——— was run out and unable to pay it. On the whole I supposed that what I and his father had done for him was enough; and all he had just reason to expect before I came up here.

And after he had been to Schenect(ady) and Albany the first time, where he was supposed to have got into good business;

And his father (Joseph No. 90) ———?——— having boasted of having done so well by his son;

I again mentioned to Chester that I thought it proper he should give me a receipt for the legacy.

He much wondered that I should, so much as in a distant thought, in the least suspect so ill of him, as to ———?——— me one receipt before he went to Albany the first time as to think he could be guilty of such a piece of ingratitude as to let me suffer at all in that case; since the grant of it first was procured through my influence; and I had never received a penny for all I had done in the affair.

I told him I chose the matter should be settled and though he had given me a receipt before he went up the first time, yet it was not so publickly known that his father had made him free and allowed him to act for himself.

Accordingly he signed one and did it as freely as ever he did anything. Which receipt I sent to Col. Conant, the Judge of Probate, where it is recorded.

Now, though he wanted a few months of being 21 years old, I supposed the law would admit the consideration of these several things:

1. That it was procured for him by my influence.
2. That Chester was not an Orphan, but has had all along a Father and natural guardian.
3. That the money was put into the hands of his natural guardian and not into the hands of a stranger.
4. That he was allowed to trade and had got into great business before. He gave that receipt and so was as capable of giving that receipt as of the many notes and bonds which, I hear, he will likely find will be esteemed good against him, if he should return to Schenectady, which I suppose may be abundantly proved if you should send there—whence, I hear, he fled by night to get rid of them.

I think I have resigned the affair into the hands of God. I have never received a farthing for all my care and trouble in the whole affair, but have given him as much evidence of benevolence, charity, kindness and good will to him, as the nature of the thing would admit—which he frankly acknowledged—though now I hear he says his signing that receipt was forced out of him.

I would have you take the best advice you can, in the affair; and if it goes forward I choose to employ Lawyer Elisha Payne, whom I esteem as a gentleman of fidelity; and any other you think proper.

I wish you would go to Lieut. Bingham (No. 90—father of Chester) and see how much he will own he paid him towards that legacy; and perhaps you would do well to visit Col. Conant and see the date of the receipt and how much he wanted of being 21 years old.

Eleazar Wheelock.
